AMBITIOUS PROJECT DISCUSSED

DOMINIONS EXPECTED TO CO-OPERATE

London, Dec. 20.

Far reaching developments in Empire air communications are proposed in a scheme outlined in the House of Commons to-day by Sir Philip Sassoon, Undersecretary for Air.

Sir Philip said these proposals, which are the results of many months of work by the Air Ministry and Post Office, in consultation with Imperial Airways, were approved by British Government in the late Summer and subsequently communicated to other Empire Governments concerned.

Until the views from all these Governments have been received the scheme must, of course, be regarded as a basis for discussion only, since its realisation depends upon their willing co-operation and support.

Sir Philip Sassoon emphasised that his statement must therefore not be taken as prejudging the issue. The scheme, he continued, contained three main features.

Firstly, very material improvement on the present time schedules between several parts of the Empire concerned;

Secondly, a substantial increase in the frequency of services;

And, thirdly all first class mail to Empire countries covered by projected services in future to be carried by air.

A schedule was envisaged of just over two days to India, two and a half to East Africa, four to the Cape, four to Singapore and seven to Australia.

Provision was made for four or possibly five services a week to India, three services a week to Singapore and East Africa and two to South Africa and Australia respectively.

NO RATE DECISION

He could say yet any nothing definite about the letter rate proposed, but they hoped that so far as it concerned the United Kingdom letters for Empire destinations, subject to a successful outcome of negotiations with the Governments concerned, it might be in the region of the present Empire rate of 1½d. But this would apply per half ounce instead of to the first ounce, as at present.

He mentioned correspondence covering at least eight sheets of special light paper which could be sent within the half ounce limit. It would, of course, be for other participating Governments to fix their own postal charges.

An integral feature of the scheme was a comprehensive programme for the development of ground organisation of Empire air routes on a basis which would enable services which would cater for passenger as well as mail traffic, to operate by night as freely as by day.

INAUGURATION DATE

Sir Philip added it would not be practicable to give further details as regard finance, types of aircraft, etc., until negotiations with the other Governments concerned were completed and he could say yet give no date for the inauguration of the scheme. The provision of the necessary fleet and ground organisation would require a period of something like two years before a project of this magnitude, constituting as it does the largest step forward which has yet been taken in the development of Empire air communications, could be brought into full operation. Further, the Postmaster General made it clear there was little possibility of introducing a 1½d. postal rate for Imperial first class correspondence carried by air before 1937.—British Wireless.

EXTENDED SERVICE

London, Dec. 20.
From December 30, the England-South Africa air mail will operate twice a week instead of once. The Wednesday service will operate to Capetown but the Sunday service only to Johannesburg.
From January 1 the air mail service to India will also operate

AIR FLEET TO SEARCH FOR PLANE

HOPE FADES FOR DUTCH FLIERS

SEVEN MEN ON BOARD

Baghdad, Dec. 20.

The Dutch airmen aboard the plane which Parmentier and Moll piloted in the England-Australia marathon have now been missing about twenty-four hours. Small hope is entertained that they have not met with serious accident.

Twenty-four British aeroplanes are joining in the search for the missing ship.

Official quarters here have grave fears for the fate of the machine. Last heard of over Gaza, after she had left Cairo, the Dutchmen flashed an "All Well" message at midnight.

They were attempting a 15,000 mile flight, from Amsterdam to the Dutch East Indies and return, carrying Christmas mails, and expected to complete the journey in five days.—Reuter.

DESERT SEARCH

London, Dec. 20.
British aeroplanes and armoured cars are searching the desert for the Dutch Douglas air liner carrying the Christmas mails from Holland to Batavia, of which nothing has been heard since it passed Gaza, Palestine, on its way to Baghdad last night.

A terrific thunderstorm occurred during the night in this area, and it is feared the liner was forced down. Bad visibility and the state of the ground make the search difficult both for aircraft and land vehicles.

The liner carried three passengers and a crew of four, including the pilots, Messrs. Beckman and Van Steenberghe. She is the machine which arrived second in the Melbourne race, when she became known as the "flying hotel".—British Wireless.

LADY PEEL'S RETURN ARRIVES BACK FROM F.M.S.

Contingent Marching To Saar Front

BRITISH TROOPS ON THEIR WAY

SWEDISH UNIT EMBARKS

London, Dec. 20.

The First Battalions of the East Lancashire and Essex Regiments left Catterick to-night for the Saar, marching out to the ringing cheers of the garrison.

This force, 1,023 strong, is taking forty tons of baggage, including several footballs.

The first of the British units for the Saar patrol are already at their stations, but they are mainly R.A.S.C. men who are making arrangements for the billeting and feeding of the army of peaceful occupation.—Reuter.

SWEDISH TROOPS

Stockholm, Dec. 20.

Sweden's contingent of troops for the Saar police force embarked at Trelleborg for Sassnitz to-day, after being reviewed by the King.

His Majesty addressed the men, impressing upon them the fact that great confidence was being placed in their efficiency, discipline and judgment in the event of emergencies arising.

FAST FLIGHT INTO AFRICA

1,060 MILES IN FOUR HOURS

London, Dec. 20.

The De Havilland Comet plane in which Kenneth Waller, the Melbourne air race competitor, with the Belgian Captain Francoromme, left Brussels to-day on a flight to Leopoldville, in the Congo, to demonstrate the possibility of a fast air mail service along this route, landed at Oran this afternoon, having completed the 1,060 miles stage in 4 hours, 56 minutes, at a speed of 210 miles an hour, in view of the weather conditions it was expected that the flight would take at least seven hours.

The airman will to-morrow proceed to Nuamey, in French West Africa, 1,500 miles distant.

The Comet is the type of machine in which Scott and Black won the Melbourne race.—British Wireless.

POWERS AT CROSS PURPOSES

NAVAL ACCORD NO NEARER

U.S. WAITING FOR TOKYO

Tokyo, Dec. 20.

The Minister of the Navy to-day instructed Admiral Yamamoto to remain in London and continue his efforts to carry Japan's point for naval equality.

Newspapers comment acutely on the adjournment of the naval talks and declare it is regrettable, though to be expected. Although the Anglo-Japanese views are steadily converging, there can be no glimmer of hope as long as the United States remains stubborn concerning the Japanese claim for parity, they state.

Reports from Washington state that Mr. Cordell Hull has indicated that America intends to await Japan's formal denunciation of the Washington Treaty before undertaking any new moves.

Mr. Hull denies reports to the effect that America is considering proposing a gentlemen's agreement with Japan and Great Britain concerning the scrapping of naval vessels during the next two years.—Reuter.

Trade Mission For China

AMERICANS PLAN 1935 VISIT

SMALL ARMY OF INVESTIGATORS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received, December 21, 10.10 a.m.)

New York, Dec. 20.

The National Foreign Trade Council, co-operating with the American-Chinese Trade Council in Shanghai, has announced that it is organizing an American traders and a corps of secretaries who will compile data for an exhaustive report.

The object of the mission is to increase Sino-American trade which, many economists believe, is inevitably to become one of the greatest features of world commerce.

The mission will remain in China for three months, Mr. E. F. Thomas, President of the Foreign Trade Council, states. He is at present arranging the preliminaries for the trip.

The names of the members of the mission will be announced later.—United Press.

Dates Fixed For Trial Of Portuguese

HELD ON CHARGE OF KIDNAPPING

INVESTIGATION INCOMPLETE

At the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning, Mr. E. W. Hamilton fixed December 28 at 2.15 p.m. and January 3 at the same hour for hearing of the case in which Frederic Barretto and Luiz Antonio da Rocha are being charged on three counts relating to the alleged kidnapping of Luiz Ribeiro, aged six years, from No. 7 Hanoi Road, Kowloon.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, appeared for the Crown this morning, when the accused, who had been remanded from yesterday, were again charged.

In stating that he would not give an outline of the case this morning, Mr. Fraser said that the investigations of the Crown had still a little way to go, but he would be ready in a week's time. He mentioned that the evidence from the Crown would be relatively brief.

His Worship said he would start the case on December 28 on the assumption that it would go for trial to the Criminal Sessions.

Mr. Fraser, replying, said his opening of the case would assist His Worship on that point, but, so far as he knew at the moment, it would not be a case in which His Worship would have to commit.

Mr. Fraser further stated that it would be difficult to outline the case now, because he did not know what the outcome of further investigations would be.

INDIA REFORM OPPOSED

SOVIET EXPOSES FASCIST PLOT

KIROV'S MURDERERS INVOLVED?

NOTORIOUS ZINOVIEFF UNDER ARREST

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received, Dec. 21, 9 a.m.)

London, Dec. 20.

The Evening Standard Moscow correspondent states that the notorious and mysterious Gregori Zinovieff, one-time Russian revolutionary leader but later expelled from the Communist party because of attacks on Stalin, has been arrested in connection with the murder of the Soviet official, Kirov.

Zinovieff, it will be recalled, was said to have written a letter to English Communists in 1924 which suggested a plan for the Bolshevizing of the British army, and the publication of this document played a large part in overthrowing the Labour Government of Great Britain.

The Soviet Government refuses to confirm or deny that Zinovieff is in custody.

TAKES HAND IN MURDER TRIAL

ASSASSINATION SUSPECTS

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received, December 21, 10.10 a.m.)

Paris, Dec. 20.

The decision of Queen Marie of Yugoslavia to constitute herself "a civil party" in the case against the three men charged with complicity in connection with the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, creates a startling precedent in French legal history.

Legal circles are rejoicing at the decision of the Queen, mother of the boy ruler of the Serbs and Croats, saying it demonstrates the Queen's confidence in French justice.—United Press.

Assisting Shipping

ADMINISTRATION OF SUBSIDY

ADVISORY BODY SELECTED

London, Dec. 20.

The Advisory Committee of the Board of Trade for the administration of the Government grant of £2,000,000 a year to British tramp shipping, will consist of Sir Vernon Thomson, Chairman, six representatives of tramp shipping, two representatives of cargo liners and one independent representative of the public interest.

This announcement was made by Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, in the House of Commons to-day, during the consideration in Committee stage of the Shipping Assistance Bill.

A Labour amendment, providing that the Committee should consist of members uninterested in shipping, was defeated by 120 to 43.—Reuter.

However, the Telegraph correspondent asserts that grave revelations in connection with the Kirov shooting are expected momentarily.

He states "that an organised Fascist-terrorist group has been discovered inside the former Bolshevik party opposition and claims that these deductions are based upon certain phrases of the official Russian journal Izvestia, including one which reads: 'The former Opposition Party has now degenerated into an openly counter-revolutionist Fascist band.'"

Zinovieff, it is said, is a member of this Opposition group.

It is hinted that his associates were responsible for Kirov's murder and since that crime was committed the Soviet authorities have been arresting suspected White Guards all over the country. Many of them have been executed during the last few days.—United Press.

YOUNG REFORMER

Zinovieff has for very many years been associated with extreme views. At the age of 18, he joined an illegal Socialist group in Russia and conducted propaganda amongst the workers. When threatened with arrest, he escaped abroad and studied at Berne University.

Later, he became a close follower of Lenin, and after the outbreak of the Great War he and Lenin were arrested by the Austro-Hungarian authorities, but they were later released and went to Switzerland.

Following the overthrow of Tsardom, both returned to Russia and became the chief instigators of the Bolshevik Revolution. When the Third Internationale was founded in 1919, Zinovieff was elected its President.

UPSET LABOUR

Zinovieff became notorious in 1924, when the British Foreign Office, just before the General Election, published the so-called "Zinovieff letter" addressed to English Communists in which directions were given for the Bolshevizing of the British Army. The letter appeared in the press before the Labour Premier, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, had seen it, and the effect on Labour's prospects at the poll was disastrous.

The Russian Government denied the authenticity of the letter, but the British Conservative Party, after an enquiry, pronounced it authentic. During the Schreck espionage trial in Berlin in 1928, the pacifist, Mortens, asserted that the letter had been concocted by Schreck and the former Polish Press Attache, Paciorekowsky.

FINE PROSPECT FOR NEXT TURF YEAR

HIGH LIGHTS OF PAST SEASON'S SPORT

BY J. H. FREEMAN

THE end of the flat race season is an appropriate time to look ahead in the world of sport. The road in front is lighted, in many places vividly, by the events of the past few months; there are a few black patches, but the rays of common sense and good sportsmanship can banish the deepest gloom.

No racing season in the post-war period has contained more solid elements of confidence in the present and of faith in the future. The factors which a few seasons ago decided some of the best of our racing owners to reduce their commitments have disappeared.

No phase of our sporting activities is more sensitive than the Turf to general economic depression or an increased national capacity to earn more and the consequent ability to spend more. From practically every racecourse in the country—particularly from the more enlightened ones where public amenities have been improved by a far-sighted executive—comes the same tale of cheerfulness and hope.

The men who ten years or so ago put thousands of pounds into the thoroughbred industry are beginning to reap the reward of their

and Doncaster sales should be appraised at approximately twice the value of twelve months before. The ranks of owners in the year ahead will include a number of men and women recruits who, in these days of cheaper money, will find an outlet for their speculative inclinations in the possession of thoroughbred stock.

What appeal is there in "spare" money earning 2 per cent. compared with the thrills and delights of ownership of a horse that may win one of the Turf's great prizes?

Gallant old Brown Jack has gone a-hunting. Steve Donoghue, his inseparable companion on the racecourse, is fifty years young. Gordon Richards, for the second time in his career, has ridden more than 200 winners. The totalisator has stood up to its most formidable assault and justified its claim to receive off-the-course money through agents.

Can one view these things, even from afar, without feeling some of the romance of the past and sharing in the ever-increasing optimism of the future?

ONE REGRET

But there is one matter of indirect yet intimate concern with racing that is causing many thoughtful people real regret and a deep-rooted anxiety. It is that opportunity was not taken by Parliament when discussing the Betting and Lotteries Bill to clear up the middle of our effete and unfair betting laws.

Instead of a firm and all-embracing measure that would have brought the whole subject in line with modern conditions and modern thought we have seen added to the Statute Book an Act that has already caused nation-wide confusion and that will lead to endless legal battles. It has placed within the scope of parliamentary sanction a form of betting that is dangerous socially, morally, and financially.

The position of football pool betting has nowhere caused more concern than in the higher legislative bodies connected with the winter game.

HASTY MEASURE

I have written on a number of occasions of the urgent need for fairness to both the man in the Sheffield factory and the man in the Pall Mall club when discussing betting reform. In the present hasty measure, which has given football pool betting a legal status, I believe Parliament has sown the seeds of incalculable mischief. I have been given evidence that in less than one week the number of firms dealing in this form of gambling—for gambling it is—has multiplied a hundredfold.

Pool betting allied to racing or football or any sport should be permitted only when the public is assured of the strongest possible safeguards. It is incomprehensible to me that a Parliament which imposed the most stringent guarantees, including a definite limitation of the percentage deduction from stake money, when setting up the Racecourse Betting Control Board should permit the unrestricted totting of the football public by private syndicates without any safeguards whatever.

In its half-hearted attempt to avoid "class legislation," Parliament has given greater opportuni-

BURNED BODY OF DEAD BABY

Arthur Mason (44), a railway employee, of Great Ancoats Street, Manchester, who was found not guilty at Manchester Assizes of murdering an infant of three months, appeared in the same Court recently before Mr. Justice Atkinson.

He was charged with being an accessory after the fact, and with having obstructed the Coroner in the execution of his duty by burning the body of the infant.

He pleaded guilty to both charges, and was sentenced to 16 days' imprisonment, the sentence to date from the beginning of the Assize. That meant his immediate release.

The Judge said he had taken the same view as the jury, who had accepted his story as the truth.

Mason had been placed in a terrible predicament. He had had to choose between giving up his wife for what might be murder, and with doing what he could to protect her from the trouble. He had broken the law. The Judge thought most men would have done the same.

It was stated that the railway company with whom Mason had been for the last 20 years would take him back at once to enable him to make a new start.

The wife, Elizabeth Mason, died in Strangeways Jail while awaiting trial. It was stated that she was very ill when she came home after the birth of the child.

But to end on a more pleasant note. Circumstances never likely to be repeated conspired to impose on English cricket in the past summer one of its most emphatic defeats. But the immediate future is made infinitely more hopeful by the decision reached this week by the Advisory Committee of the M.C.C.

I regard the experimental change in the l.b.w. law as an epoch-making step in the re-education of our cricketers. If with its permanent adoption we could get a return to the natural wicket, we should have nothing to fear from any country prepared to play cricket as a game and not as a test of physical endurance.

The French ship Nicolas Paquet wrecked off the North African coast last year, has been abandoned.

master-Sergeant James Taylor (32), of the 2nd Battalion Cameron Highlanders, pleaded not guilty to charges of fraudulent conversion of £32 belonging to the sergeants' mess funds, and absence without leave for six days.

The prosecution alleged that Taylor gave himself up at Eastbourne as an absentee, and said that he had been on the drink, and that a wallet containing £20 was stolen from his hip-pocket in a Brighton dance hall. He added

Dixon added that in cases of epilepsy, a patient frequently passed into a state of automatism or dual personality, in which he might do ridiculous or criminal things without his other self realising he was doing wrong.

It was also stated that Taylor received a head injury in a motor accident seven years ago, and had since had occasional attacks of petit mal.

The finding of the Court will be promulgated.

forethought and their judgment. The fact that the Aga Khan after a wise but stupendous expenditure spread over many seasons has had successes, particularly with his two-year-olds, almost beyond belief, will be both a justification and an incentive.

GOOD PROSPECT

For if the season's two-year-olds, especially the colts, are of such unusual quality does not the season of 1935 promise to be of amazing excellence?

It is a sign of the times too that so comparative a newcomer to the ranks of breeders as Mr. M. H. Benson should be prepared to pay £50,000 for the Derby winner, Windsor Lad, before the 3-year-old had confirmed his brilliant success by carrying off the St. Leger.

King's only daughter, Princess Mary, to Lord Lascelles in Westminster Abbey. It was the first wedding of any of the King's children, and as such it excited even more fervent public interest than any other royal wedding of the century.

Princess Mary made a very beautiful bride, and many present commented on her striking likeness at the altar to her mother, the Queen, when she had been a bride herself almost thirty years before. The honeymoon of the royal couple was spent in Shropshire and Italy.

The following year London had another opportunity to cheer a royal bridal couple when the Duke of York led the lovely Scottish Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon to the altar at Westminster Abbey. How the Duke wooed and won the charming daughter of the Earl and Countess of Strathmore made a romantic story dear to the hearts of the people.

Santiago de Chile, Dec. 20.
There are indications that theBolivian Army is preparing for a great stand.
Their retreat from the Gran

NO NEED FOR DESPAIR

Whilst regret is naturally felt that the London naval conversations have produced no tangible results, it is satisfactory to note the strong hopes which are still entertained of an eventual understanding being reached between the Powers concerned. As the official communiqué on the adjournment states, the object of the conversations was not the reaching of hard and fast conclusions; they were designed for the purpose of preparing the ground for future negotiations and agreement. Japan's decision to denounce the Washington Treaty—automatically—carries with it the abandonment of the proposed Naval Conference next year, unless, which is hardly to be expected, fresh developments occur in the meantime leading to hopes of a solution acceptable to all parties. None the less, there is ample time left in which to seek an adjustment of viewpoint, inasmuch as the Washington Treaty will still remain in force for another two years. A great deal can happen in that time, and it is reassuring to feel that both Britain and United States are anxious that some plan should be evolved which would command general approval. In this connection, it must not be overlooked that although Japan is still insistent on equality, she has all through the conversations laid stress on the point that she does not desire unrestricted armaments competition, but wishes to replace the existing Treaty by a more comprehensive pact. Her willingness to enter into a sweeping disarmament understanding is also so much to the good. In short, there is evidence of a unity of purpose on the part of all three Powers, even though opinions be divided on the methods of attaining the desired end. The task which remains to be fulfilled is to bring the parties into closer alignment with a view to evolving a substitute for the Washington Treaty which shall serve the main purposes for which that document was devised. The alternative to this is a futile naval armaments race which would not only prove extremely costly to all engaged in it, but would not be any gain for Japan, since neither Britain nor the United States are prepared to concede actual equality. The net result would be that Japan would have merely added to her naval

NOTES OF THE DAY

SOMEBODY KNOWS

Not long ago we made enquiries as to what might be the future of Hongkong as an airport. We got no very satisfactory answer. From official sources we could get no information whatever, and the only response from private quarters was that it was hoped that various enterprises would include Hongkong in their air itineraries. Whether permission to any but British owned and operated machines to trade in and through the Colony would be forthcoming, no-one knew for certain. Meanwhile, all about the Colony, in the Philippines, in China, and farther afield, preparations were going forward to meet the demands of the future, to prepare for the advent of commercial air services, but no-one apparently knew what the Hongkong proposed to do in this direction. Now, according to Chinese news sources, Sir Alexander Cadogan, the British Minister, has announced that when the Canton-Hankow Railway is completed it is probable that Imperial Airways will connect with Hongkong. We have no assurance that this announcement is official, and just why Imperial Airways should wait upon the completion of the Canton-Hankow railway is not exactly clear. For whether or not this railway operates, Hongkong must eventually be joined in the world's air system, and the sooner plans are made for this development the better for this Colony.

MAKING HISTORY

An M. P. suggests that we are not making sufficient use of the possibilities of the cinema and wireless as means of preserving a permanent record, in sound and in scene, of events of historic importance. He instances the recent ceremony in the House of Lords, when the Duke of Kent took his seat, and the Royal opening of Parliament and the wedding of His Royal Highness and Princess Marina as events which should be fully recorded, not only for the benefit of posterity, but also for the edification of those British people, at home and beyond the seas, who are thrilled by ceremonial that embodies so much of the traditions of our race. The B.B.C. and the news-film companies certainly do something in this direction, but the argument of the M.P. is that there is room for the systematic recording of episodes of patriotic or historic significance. The theory that it is "vulgar" to yield to publicity is perishing fast. Even our most revered institutions are letting in the limelight and finding themselves none the worse for it. The members of the Royal Family, too, are always ready to respond to the natural desire of their subjects to see and hear their various activities in the service of the nation. The value of the permanent records in the years to come is obvious. With what avidity would the present generation listen to a sound-film, were such available, of landmark happenings of the Elizabethan, Cromwellian, or even the Victorian era! A few hundred years hence twentieth century sound-films of memorable occasions would not be less enthralling. However furiously man dashes along the highway of progress, he is never altogether oblivious to the magical appeal of the past.

AIRSHIPS PERSIST

It is interesting to notice that while many Americans have taken it for granted that the large dirigible will never have any practical use, the Germans are going calmly ahead with plans to put these big ships to work. Next March the Zeppelin workers at Friedrichshafen will complete a new dirigible even larger than the Graf of Transatlantic and world cruise fame—a giant that will contain 25 state-rooms for passengers, and elaborate equipment to ensure everyone's comfort. The Germans have by no means given up their confidence in the dirigible. On the contrary, they are planning for a day when airship lines will be as common as aeroplane lines. Is there not, perhaps, in that fact, an indication that we are a trifle hasty in assuming that the dirigible is and always must be impractical?

expenditure and still not have attained her desire. A point which needs stressing is that Anglo-American policy is primarily based on a recognition of the varying needs of the three Powers, and that neither the one country nor the other seeks to follow a course which would in any wise endanger Japanese security. When that aspect of the situation is fully appreciated, it should be possible to work out a plan to the mutual benefit of all the Powers concerned.

By MRS. FRANCIS LASCELLES

ROYAL marriages have always fascinated the people of these islands, who see in royal love matches the culmination of many ideals.

Undoubtedly the most momentous British royal wedding for centuries was that of Queen Victoria to Prince Albert, which took place on February 10, 1840. The fact that the bride was the reigning Sovereign of the most powerful Empire in the world lent tremendous importance to the event, and guests from all over the world poured into London.

Queen Victoria was barely 21 when she was married, and at the time she was a very attractive girl, inclined to plumpness, with fair skin, rosy cheeks, and blue eyes. In the preparations for her wedding Queen Victoria took the most minute interest.

The ceremony took place at the Chapel Royal, St. James's, and, small though the building was, the wedding lacked nothing in splendour and dignity. The young Queen, with the blue ribbon of the Garter across her white dress, made a regal bride. Her tall husband looked handsome and distinguished.

The bridal procession, with its eight bridesmaids, was a glittering sight, and one of the attendants, it is interesting to recall, was the mother of the present Queen Mary. The future Duchess of Teck was only seven years of age at the time, but she had a vivid remembrance of the great day to the end of her life.

The bridal pair were vociferously cheered by thousands of people all along the route, and the Queen and her bridesmaid were all smiles as they drove back as man and wife. The honeymoon was spent at Windsor Castle and lasted only three days.

The next royal wedding which captured the imagination of the country—and, indeed, of all Europe—was the marriage of the Prince of Wales, afterwards King Edward VII., to Princess Alexandra of Denmark.

No more beautiful bride than the radiant "sea king's daughter" ever stepped before on British soil, and on landing at Gravesend she became at once the idol of the nation.

The marriage took place at St. George's Chapel, Windsor, on March 10, 1863, and the scene in the historic and beautiful chapel was a never-to-be-forgotten one. The bridal gown of dazzling white worn by Queen Alexandra was considered at the time to be the most artistic creation of its kind ever seen in Europe, and a collection of bridesmaids were a collection of beauties unmatched at any royal wedding before or since. The celebrated Jenny Lind sang the chorale at the ceremony.

London, Windsor, and the country generally celebrated the wedding of the popular heir to the Throne with unbounded enthusiasm. All the London theatres were thrown open free to the public, bonfires were lit on nearly every hill in the country, official banquets and feasts to the poor were notable features of the celebrations.

The future King Edward and his lovely bride spent their honeymoon in the Isle of Wight, and to the end of their long lives their brilliant wedding day was a precious memory to them both.

The wedding of the present King and Queen on July 10, 1893, was solemnised in the Chapel Royal, St. James's, and was a ceremony which made a particularly strong appeal to the nation.

The famous Dr. Benson was Archbishop of Canterbury at the time, and it was this distinguished prelate, assisted by the Bishop of London (Dr. Temple, later Archbishop of Canterbury) and the Bishop of Rochester (afterwards Archbishop Davidson), who performed the marriage ceremony.

Among the guests at the brilliant occasion in the Chapel Royal was the ill-fated Czar of Russia, Queen Mary with her bright hair and rose and cream complexion was a typical English bride, and her dignity and beauty completely captured the multitudes of people who crammed the route to and from St. James's. The wedding breakfast was held in Buckingham Palace, and the honeymoon was spent at Sandringham.

The infectious smile of the Duchess and the pride on the face of her young husband will never be forgotten by anyone fortunate enough to have seen the couple drive away from the Abbey.

Another British royal wedding which aroused great interest was that of Princess Maud, the King's niece, and Lord Carnegie, who were married in November 1923. This was the last wedding at which Queen Alexandra was present, and she delightedly threw confetti at the happy couple.

The marriage of Lady May Cambridge, the Queen's niece, to Captain Abel Smith in October 1931 at the parish church in Balcombe, Sussex, will ever be memorable as the first wedding at which Princess Elizabeth acted as bridesmaid.

The list of royal weddings this century is thus already a long one. British royalities are now following the dictates of their hearts, and no marriages in Europe have been so uniformly successful as those contracted by the members of our reigning House.

There were few British royal marriages in the early part of the twentieth century. Another did not take place in England until 1913, when Prince Arthur of Connaught, the only son of the Duke of Fife, the daughter of the late Princess Royal. This was a royal romance which excited great public interest, and the young couple received a great ovation before and after the ceremony.

The Great War effectively put a stop to royal marriages—and even rumours of them—but the marriage in 1919 of the beloved Princess "Pat," daughter of the Duke of Connaught, revived in full measure the love of the British public for such ceremonies. Princess "Pat's" choice was Rear-Admiral Sir A. M. Ramsay. This union compelled the Princess to relinquish her royal rank.

That this was the first royal wedding to take place in Westminster Abbey for over 600 years made this marriage outstanding. The most important social event of 1922 was the marriage of the

The Very Idea!
MERRY CHRISTMAS

By Eddie "Santa" Kelly.

THE grim form of Father Christmas is stalking the land.

Table-knives are being inserted surreptitiously into innocent children's money-boxes by furtive fathers.

Mothers are pondering whether to give the old man a packet of cigarettes for Christmas or a box of matches.

Thieves are abroad. Do something. Chase 'em! Stop 'em! What's the S.P.C.A. doing about it?

A wire-whiskered old goat gallivanting around the Colony in a red-flannel nightgown is causing all this bother.

Why can't the police get their Claus on him?

If he's not arrested before Tuesday, we're wrecked.

All the Christmas presents we've got to buy, and our last ten cents filched from us on Monday and flung into the Christmas pudding.

Fortunately we know where it is. We marked the place on the outside with an almond.

There's been only one bright spot in the preliminary proceedings. The missus said to us, "What about drinks? I suppose you'd better see to that. How much will it cost?"

We said, "Well, there'll be Whalstooth and his headache, and gran-daddy and the boys in the office, that'll be about a hundred bucks. Then there's me . . . say about six or seven hundred."

So she said, "All right. Go and take seven hundred dollars out of my purse—but no more." (You lie, you dog. You know you lie.)

Anyway, we managed to borrow fifty bucks by biting all our pals, and after we have finished this job will wander out to do our Christmas shopping. When the local firms heard that we were going to pay cash for our purchases they mobbed us.

Biting our pals was easy. You know:

"Say, George, old man, if you could lend me ten bucks yuletide me over Christmas."

Rotten pun, but that's what the festive season does to a man.

"We haven't decided yet what to buy the missus and the girl friends, but the kids were easy."

They made a list to be posted to Father Christmas. Young Alfie wanted an aeroplane (Comet), an electric toy train complete with signals, waiting room and ticket office, costing approximately $250, a rifle and three million rounds of ammunition, and the model of the Empress of Britain in the Canadian Pacific window. So we do him a whistle. Not very useful or instructive, we know, but it'll be handy to annoy the police.

We are expecting a lot of presents ourself before Tuesday. We have hired a godown to store them all. We have already received four calendars, 231 circular letters, 3 Christmas cards and an invitation to Santa Claus Land.

Still, seeing that Christmas is the time for goodwill and all that, we're going to wash out all the dirty cracks we've made about people during the past twelve months. Besides, they may forget, and send us along a couple of hogsheds, or a sedan car, or something.

As a matter of fact, it might pay us to cultivate this spirit of fellowship of man and peace on earth a bit in the future.

No more satire about taipans. We'll start on Christmas morning with the wife. Something like this: "Well, old dear, despite your floppy ears and grey hair, and apart from the fact that you've made life a living hell for me—with all your bad points, you're pretty juley." And she'll say, "Oh, Boy! A merry Christmas to you!" And you too. Don't gorge yourself.

CHRISTMAS ODE

Jean made a hit at the party,
And I soared to the planets in mirth—
But the hit she made after the party
Suddenly brought me to earth.

MINT SAUCE

And then there was the ignorant person who thought that the Royal Mint was what the King and Queen used with their Christmas lamb.

"Well, that's a lot to pay for a bottle of wine, but I'm pretty certain Adams can throw a few orders my way."

WITH CHRISTMAS PACKAGES DUTCH PLANE'S TRIUMPH

Paramaribo, Dec. 20.

The first Atlantic crossing by a Dutch air-liner was successfully accomplished to-day when a big Fokker, carrying Christmas mails, arrived here from Amsterdam.

The Governor of Dutch Guiana was among the great crowd which greeted the flier when they landed and gave them the warmest of welcomes.

On the last stage of the flight, a 2,250 mile leg from the Cape Verde Islands, the flier was over a part of the Atlantic never before crossed by aircraft. They covered that long ocean course in 18 hours. —Reuter.

ROAD FUND GRANTS

London, Dec. 20.

It was announced in the House of Commons that an additional provision of £500,000 will be made available out of the Road Fund for grants to a scheme for reconstruction of weak bridges and for other urgent improvements with which highway authorities are ready to proceed immediately.

Grants at the rate of 75 per cent. towards 25 bridge schemes, estimated to cost about £400,000 are being issued at once. These are additional to about 80 schemes for reconstructing weak bridges or replacing level crossings at a total cost of £670,000, which the Transport Minister has already approved during the year.

Highway authorities are thus being helped to provide at once a substantial volume of useful work. —British Wireless.

London, Dec. 20.

Sir John and Lady Simon are going to the South of France for the Christmas holidays. They will leave England on Saturday and stay at Cannes for about a fortnight.

The Foreign Secretary will pass through Paris. Although he will be in the French capital for only a few hours, he hopes to have an opportunity of seeing the French Premier and Foreign Minister, Messrs. Flandin and Laval. —British Wireless.

CHARHAR LOSING MONGOLIA TRADE

SOVIET FIRM HOLDS RIGHTS

Peking, Dec. 21.

According to a high official of the Charhar Government, considerable difficulty still exists in the way of a satisfactory settlement of the trade problem between Charhar and Outer Mongolia.

Most of the trade rights are monopolised by a Soviet-financed firm, which, therefore, leaves Charhar in a very unfavourable position.

WANG CHING-WEI ILL

Nanking, Dec. 20.

Mr. Wang Ching-wei, President of the Executive Yuan, is proceeding to Shanghai by a special train to-night in order to consult Dr. Noll on his physical condition. He will also visit Mr. Koo Meng-yu, Minister of Railways, and Admiral Chen Shao-kuen, Minister of the Navy, both of whom are in hospital. —Central News.

Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, together with Mrs. MacGregor, left by the Dollar Liner, President Coolidge for the Christmas holidays in Manila. The big list of passengers by the President Coolidge also include Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Hodgson and Miss Hodgson, Mr. H. R. Sturt, General Manager of the China Underwriters, and Mr. and Mrs. W. K. COLONY'S TRADE

DECREASE REVEALED IN STATISTICS

The Statistical Office of the Imports and Exports Department reports that, during the first eleven months of 1934, imports of merchandise into the Colony of Hongkong totalled $377.7 millions ($28.4 millions), as compared with $464.1 millions ($31.3 millions) in the corresponding period of 1933; a decrease in terms of Hongkong currency of 18.6 per cent. whilst exports of merchandise were valued at $296.7 millions ($22.3 millions), as compared with $375.1 millions ($25.3 millions) in the corresponding period of 1933; a decrease in terms of Hongkong currency of 20.9 per cent.

Figures for the month of November, 1934, show that imports of merchandise into the Colony amounted to a declared value of $38.8 millions ($3.2 millions), as compared with $40.6 millions ($2.9 millions) in November of 1933; a decrease in terms of local currency of 4.4 per cent.

Exports of merchandise totalled $29.6 millions ($2.4 millions), as compared with $33.7 millions ($2.4 millions); a decrease in terms of local currency of 12.6 per cent. Since November, 1933, total imports of merchandise into Hongkong fluctuated from the lowest Hongkong dollar value ($2.5 millions) in February, 1934, to the highest ($10.6 millions) in November, 1933; whilst exports fluctuated from $2.2 millions in February, 1934, to $3.3 millions in November, 1933.

CHEAP ATLANTIC RATES

London, Dec. 20.

The proposal of British groups to buy the Red Star liners and organise a new trans-Atlantic service at cheap rates was again raised in the House of Commons to-day.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Chamberlain, replying to a question, refused to reconsider his decision to discourage the necessary capital issue to finance this project. He said the recent revision of the scheme by its promoters did not alter the fact it would revive uneconomic competition, to the prejudice of British interests in the North Atlantic trade. —British Wireless.

PANCHEN LAMA WILL RETURN TO TIBET

ALL DIFFICULTIES NOW REMOVED

Peking, Dec. 20.

A message reaching here from Tibet states that as a result of General Huang Wu-sung's efforts at Lhasa all difficulty that obstructs the return of the Panchen Lama to Tibet has been removed.

As an indication of the general favourable feeling shown among the Tibetan people toward the Panchen Lama, a delegation jointly sent by three leading Buddhist Convents in Tibet to welcome the Panchen Lama back, is on its way here. —Central News.

Hockey Interport Postponed

COLONY UNABLE TO RAISE A TEAM

Hopes of a hockey interport with Malaya were dashed yesterday, when, at a meeting of the Council of the Hongkong Hockey Association, it was decided that the interport be postponed until next year, in view of the inability to raise a team to send to the southern port.

Mr. W. Woodward, president and others present were Mr. P. A. Kemp (Secretary), Mr. A. M. Xavier (Treasurer), Capt. R. S. C. Bates (Army), P. G. Barros (Incorporation), G. T. Palmer (V. M. C. A.), A. E. P. Guest (St. Andrew's), Johan Dad (Kowloon Indians), Surg. Cdr. A. E. Phillips (Royal Navy), and Surgan Singh (Radio).

The meeting decided to accept the invitation of the Malaya Hockey Association to play an interport match at Malacca, and it was decided to suggest, Sunday, February 4, for the date of the match.

On a proposal by Surg. Cdr. Phillips, it was decided that the interport with Malacca be an annual fixture, played alternatively in Hongkong and Malacca.

In response to circulars sent to the various clubs for representatives for the interport, with Malaya, only ten names were received, and the meeting decided to postpone the match to next year.

The following were appointed to select the Hongkong team to meet Malacca: Lt. C. G. Garthwaite (Army), Surg. Cdr. Phillips (Royal Navy) and A. A. Dand (Civilian). The last three Sundays in January were fixed for trial matches.

Clubs are requested to submit names of players for the Malacca match to the secretary, Mr. Kemp, as soon as possible.

LIST OF AWARDS

The following is a list of players decided upon by the Council as having the right to wear badges:

LAND OF THE FREE

IRISHMEN NO LONGER BRITISH SUBJECTS

Dublin, Dec. 20.

By 51 votes to 36, the Dail to-day passed the final stage of the Citizenship Bill.

Mr. Frank MacDermot of the United Ireland Party declared the Bill was a bogus step towards a 32 counties Republic, which was unattainable.

In reply, Mr. de Valera declared that the measure was aimed at removing from the Irish Law any suggestion that the Irish were British subjects. —Reuter.

THE F.B.I. MISSION TO MANCHUKUO

DEFINITE OPENINGS FOR BRITAIN

London, Dec. 20.

The long-awaited report of the Federation of British Industries Mission to Manchukuo and Japan was issued to-day.

The report states that the mission was entirely unofficial and non-political. It emphasises that reports, attributing to members of the Mission statements of a political nature are entirely without foundation.

The report states that owing to fresh contacts made by the Mission, the Federation of British Industries is now in a far better position than ever before to introduce intending business visitors to leading business and official circles in Japan. The Mission strongly urges interested firms to send out responsible representatives to study problems on the spot.

The Mission found a genuine spirit of friendship towards Britain existing in Japan. This, they claim, has been strengthened by their visit and by the formation of a permanent link representing British and Japanese industry in London and Tokyo.

Definite Openings

The Mission reached the definite conclusion that there were openings for British industry, chiefly in the provision of capital and goods in connection with the rapid development now occurring.

They offered the Manchukuo authorities the collaboration of British industry and the Mission received a written assurance, accepting in principle such collaboration.

Concrete proposals supporting this principle will be submitted to the Mission in due course.

In view of the substantial participation of British industry in the contemplated development works, subject to mutual agreement as regards prices and terms of payment a preliminary agreement has been reached relating to the supply of steel products to Japan. Delivery will be made to Japan and Manchukuo during 1935. Details have been communicated to the British Iron and Steel Federation.

The report finally gives an appreciation, from a business viewpoint only, of conditions in Manchukuo. It says the inhabitants enjoy an increasing measure of security and ordered Government. They are subject to a reasonable system of taxation fairly administered, and the advantages of a sound currency.

"A modern state is being created," concludes the report. "Although difficulties lie ahead, we believe they will be overcome and economic prosperity will gradually be achieved for the benefit of Manchukuo and the trade of other countries." —Reuter.

No Trade War

London, Dec. 20.

London morning newspapers are espousing an Anglo-Japanese economic entente, instead of a trade war.

The 36-page Report of the Federation of British Industries Mission to Manchukuo announced that the Manchukuo Government is preparing proposals with a view to the substantial participation of British industry in Manchukuo's development.

The Report adds that an agreement has already been reached for the delivery of British steel products to Japan and Manchukuo in 1935.

The Report revealed that the Manchukuo authorities handed Lord Barmby a "written assurance on the principle of British collaboration in the development of Manchukuo as being definitely accepted." It affirmed that the Mission obtained an assurance of offers of business of a large scale.

Emphasising the Mission's non-political character, the Report throughout is friendly to Japan, though critical. —United Press.

TRADE AGREEMENT

ANGLO-PERUVIAN TALKS IN LONDON

London, Dec. 20.

Formal negotiations between the British and Peruvian Governments for a commercial agreement began yesterday, in London, with the visit of the Peruvian Minister to the Board of Trade and Foreign Office.

Detailed discussions will begin early in the New Year. In each of the last two years, the United Kingdom has had an adverse balance of trade with Peru of over £2,000,000. —British Wireless.

SENSATIONAL BADMINTON LEAGUE DEVELOPMENT

Middlesex Join With Junior Counties

Middlesex, who have long been seeking a suitable method of improving their young cricketers have taken an important step to that end by joining the Minor Counties' Championship.

Home and away matches in the competition have been arranged against Surrey, Kent, Glamorgan, Devon, and Cornwall, the home games to be played at Osterley, Finchley, and Baling.

Club and Ground games against strong clubs will, of course, be played as well, so that the senior side is now likely to be backed by efficient reserve strength.

K.C.C. WITHDRAW ALL THEIR TEAMS

HOUSE COMMITTEE AND DANCE FLOOR DAMAGE

LADIES' DOUBLES IN DIRECT LINE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

(By "Veritas")

The Kowloon Cricket Club Badminton section yesterday learned with consternation of the decision of the General Committee made on Wednesday to abandon badminton at the K.C.C. forthwith.

As a result the Club, which figured amongst the pioneers of the game in Hongkong will have to withdraw their teams from the Badminton League.

It is understood that this decision was reached in consequence of a comprehensive report by the House Committee in which it was stated that not only had the playing of badminton on the sprung dance floor in the main hall of the Clubhouse already damaged the floor, but that its continuance would in all probability cause further considerable more damage.

The report was carefully studied and the decision to abandon the game was reluctantly made by the Committee.

DOUBLY UNFORTUNATE

The news will be regretfully received by all Badminton enthusiasts in the Colony, entailing as it does the withdrawal of three teams from the League.

So far as the K.C.C. is concerned it is doubly unfortunate, in respect of the Ladies' Doubles. This team which was in direct line for the Championship, had one more match to play on its own court and if this had been done it would have entitled the team to a deciding match with the "Recreio" "A". As it is the "Recreio" first string has now won the decision without further opposition.

The K.C.C. have played two matches in the Men's Doubles and Mixed Doubles. They will have to be expunged from the records. Their withdrawal from the Mixed Doubles leaves a loss to this Division of a very strong team, which started the season with two victories, one against the Fire Brigade and the other against the Chinese Recreation Club.

In the Men's Doubles two defeats were suffered against the "Recreio" "A" and St. Andrew's.

NEW SAINTS' TEAM

It is understood that St. Andrew's Club is making application to the Badminton Association for permission to enter a men's doubles team in the League. They will apply for admission to the "B" Division.

BACKING JOCKEY'S MOUNTS

Invariably Shows A Big Loss

One of the systems of betting which finds favour with many people during the flat race season is backing jockey's mounts. If you do this consistently you are bound to lose—except in very rare instances.

Eleven of the twelve leading jockeys this year, if followed on a $1 staking system, would show a big loss; in the case of the champion, Gordon Richards, it would be as much as $150.

The only one of them with a balance on the right side would be Perryman, who next year is to ride for Lord Derby.

The fault, of course, does not rest with the jockey. The most-sought-after of them are bound to ride many more losers than winners, and the prices of the winners of men like Richards are normally so short that they cannot balance the stakes that have gone.

It has to be remembered that an average of one winner in five throughout the season is pretty good going for a jockey.

CRICKET NOTES

THE HOURS OF PLAY

(By R. Abbot)

Everything went according to expectation on Saturday last and the teams ran much according to form. In the game at Kowloon I learn that the home side won the toss and put the Club in, and from that angle they stood every chance of drawing the game should they have so desired. But they were very much weakened by the absence of Burnett and Willie Hung, which reduced the bowling to Smith and Lee more or less. I am told that Owen Hughes played a beautiful knock and scored his runs in an hour and half at most, and was placing the ball very skilfully as soon as he got his eye in. Pearce did not come off. He seems to have got rather a patch.

When I watch Branwell I wonder if Pearce is not over-cautious. Anyway he was taken at the wicket off a ball that came through a good deal quicker than the others. Mitchell though twice lucky, played a most useful "Saturday afternoon" knock and an early declaration gave the Club a chance to win. It also gave the K.C.C. a chance to win and I gather that when the third wicket fell at seventy they were ahead of the clock—counting two runs to the minute. But after Teddy Fincher there was no one who could do anything and the whole side collapsed for twenty-one runs, after the fall of the third wicket. I was told, (and let me hastily say it was a K.C.C. man who said it), that the wicket had been watered a bit too much during the week, and when the effects of the roller had worn off, it took a great deal of spin. Anyway, Ricketts and Pearce bowled commonly well. The Club will miss him at Christmas, but after all, Swatow is Swatow! A H.K.C.C. criticism was that Bob Lee was taken off an over or two too early and not put on again soon enough.

THE NAVY'S EASY WIN

Once more the value of winning the toss and putting the opponents in was exemplified on Saturday last when Capt. Cutter won the toss and put the Civil Service in, and reaped the reward with an easy victory for the Navy. By the way, if the Pompey precedent is followed the team ought to be called R.N. and R.M. What about it?

As usual Sayer and Richardson did the bulk of the work and put up forty-two before the latter tried to turn Briggs to the leg and was bowled off his pads. Beasant had not before and Hargreaves, who is recovering his form, was more successful, lighting his stumps well. He was, however, lucky to get the decision against Sayer as the ball appeared, from the cliff behind the line of the wickets to pitch clear of the sticks. However, the sight of it was not very open and anyway he was out. Griffiths had just previously made a bad shot at a bad ball—a long-hop—and was taken at the wickets. Perry got a few and Barrow kept his wicket up, but the rest of the story is improper, save for some good hitting by Baker whose innings was brought to an end by a fine display of mixed at Lord's. Widen the Navy rattled up the runs easily enough. Baker brought off a beautiful c. and b. off a hard hit and then dropped his usual sitter in the slips, where he ought not to field these days, and I am told that the ground fielding was appalling. I understand that there is a general feeling among ex-players of the C.S.C.C. 1st XI that Dicky Richardson's dictum that anyone over the age of sixty is not good enough to play for the First is hardly justified by the facts.

I owe Branwell an apology, i.e., his name, but it shows you what you get if you are too careful as a scribe. I knew he had made a hundred at Lord's against the Army so looked him up. Widen records that Sub-Lieut. Branwell made 9 and 104 not out against the Army in 1932, and the same gentleman had made—according to the "Cricketer" for that season for R.N. and R.M. Portsmouth 7 and 78 v. Quilnuncs, 63 and 14 v. R.A. and 64 and 19 v. M.C.C. with Bowles playing for them. How could one foresee that he would change into Branwell in the 1933 season? Anyway, my apologies.

JUNIOR DIVISION

The Navy had little difficulty in defeating the Civil Service in the Junior Division, for the C.S.C.C. only made forty-three of which Westlake had eighteen. Both K.C.C. and H.K.C.C. batted well on the Club ground. George Lee, Armstrong and Flowerdew being the chief scorers. It was a pretty honest draw.

FRIENDLIES

There was not very much of unusual interest in the various friendly games played. The I.R.C. beat Craigengower pretty easily, while the K.C.C. were too good for the "Press". The I.R.C. Juniors also won their match, as did the Police against the University. Hunter was again to the fore with the bat. I am glad to see that the new Regiment can raise an eleven. They did not do badly to run an Army side to a hundred odd runs. Major Barry, I gather, is a new Army spin bowler, but he is not playing to-morrow.

HOURS OF PLAY

There was so much to write of last week that I had no time to touch on the question of hours of play. I saw one very reasonable three points, with which I should like to deal. In the first place, the suggestion that League matches should start at 1.45 p.m. promptly is a counsel of perfection which honestly is not practicable without turning Saturday's cricket into very hard work. A great many of the players have to be in their offices until one or after. A great many of them cannot come to office in flannels, even with the addition of the harmless necessary tie. A great many of them cannot afford to have tillin out whether at a club or a restaurant. Now, take the case of the Kowloon resident playing at King's Park. At least he has to bring all his clothes over in the morning and a picnic lunch, and if he cannot be sure of getting his cricket gear transported by his Club, he will have to hump that as well. So only could he possibly be ready to go on to the field of play at 1.45 p.m., and though I don't say it is making a weariness out of a pastime.

The second suggestion re afternoon tea is eminently practical and practicable. The interval is ten minutes in the rules and this I think should be kept. But it should be a "ten minutes sharp." I know of very few games in which fifteen minutes is not taken.

The third point is the old question of playing each other twice. All I can say is that it has often been tried and always found wanting. The various friendly dates are useful in case of the necessity of postponing matches owing to bad weather or other causes. On paper I admit it sounds alright but I can only repeat that I have seen it tried more than once and that the result was not a success. However, I am inclined to think the question might well be debated at the next League Meeting. But—a big but—does it not rather put the Navy out of it?

TO-MORROW'S GAMES

Christmas is upon us and the only League game in the Senior Division is that between the Navy and the Army, which will be a useful try-out for the Triangular Tournament games. It will be a very close fight I think with a shade of odds on the Army. The Club, K.C.C. and C.S.C.C. are at home to Craigengower, I.R.C. and "Recreio" respectively. The Club and I.R.C. should win, but this second game will be a useful practice for two teams which are both a bit off their true form. "Recreio" should beat Civil Service.

In the Junior Division Varsity may beat R.E. as they are at home. In Friendlies—H.K.C.C. and I.R.C. should beat the C.C.C. and Police. "Recreio" will beat C.S.C.C. I fancy! At Christmas I gather Club plays the Army on the 26th. I fancy 24th is not a half holiday for Civilians while Navy visit Kowloon. "Pity one cannot visit both matches at once!

FRIENDLY CRICKET

Queen's College Beat R.A.M.C.

In a friendly cricket match at Soekunpo on Tuesday, Queen's College beat the R. A. S. C. by one wicket. The military side scored 139, Capt. G. W. P. Kimm retiring after making 50. L/Cpl. Crawford contributed 34 towards the total.

The College team replied with 142 for nine wickets, D. Singh being top scorer with 58 his credit, while As R. Kitchell scored 22.

LOW SCORING MATCH

Queen's College were beaten by 58 runs in a low scoring match by the Central British School on the Indian R. C. ground on Wednesday. The Kowloon students scored 91 runs, K. Trost making 25 and P. Wilson 20. M. Afzal captured eight of the wickets for 29 runs.

K. Baxter took seven wickets for 15, when Queen's College went to the crease. The latter were dismissed for 33 runs.

U.S. MARINES DRAW WITH CORNWALL

YESTERDAY'S THIRD RUGGER GAME

(By "Livesman")

H.M.S. Cornwall, the only rugby XV to beat the famous Fourth United States Marines team in Shanghai in 1929, when the latter were on top of their form, held the marines to a draw at Happy Valley yesterday, each side having eight points on the board. The teams thus still share honours in their three encounters, each having won a match prior to yesterday's game. The Marines are passing through the Colony on the U.S. Transport Shampout on their way to Manila.

RACING

The Final Race Meeting Last Saturday

THREE FAVOURITES WIN CHAMPIONS

The final race meeting of the year took place last Saturday under ideal weather conditions, and it was an unqualified success. The three Champions were won by the three favourites, but in each race the win was not as easy as when each pony accounted for his or her St. Leger of three weeks ago.

Three ponies only faced the starter for the Hongkong Autumn Champions and, as expected, the race was won by Soldier of Britain (Mr. Deltz) who finished one and a half lengths in front of King's Justice (Mr. Heard) with Sacko (Mr. Phi) two lengths further away. Soldier of Britain led from the start, and was followed by King's Justice and Sacko respectively. There was no change in this position during the entire race. Half way up the straight King's Justice made a challenge, but it was successfully resisted. "Bri-tain", however, had to be urged to maintain his lead and the win was not scored as easily as I thought it would be. Sacko also made an effort but the fast pace set at the early part of the race apparently took too much out of him, as he could not finish with his accustomed pulverising rush.

AUTUMN SUBS.
For the Autumn Sub-Champions: we saw a field of seven starters, and Cavalade (Mr. Phi) was made an outstanding favourite. He did not disappoint his many admirers as he won the race by a length. Classic Hall (Mr. Heard) ran a much better pony than he did in the St. Leger. He took the lead at the start and was still leading—full of running—on entering the straight for home. A real set-to for mastery then took place but Classic Hall could not sustain his effort and therefore went under by a length. St. Ives (Mr. Deltz) did exceedingly well to finish third, half a length further away. On his running at Macao, I thought Young Chap (Mr. P. P. Botelho) had an outstanding chance of annexing the race, but he ran most disappoint-ingly, and could only finish fourth. Able Amazon (Mr. Butler) lived up to her reputation of being the outstanding "Australian" in the Colony at the present time, and she had no difficulty in winning the Queensland Autumn Champions by three lengths. Racing Heart (Mr. Heard) did well to finish second with Night Star (Mr. Phi) third, two lengths further away. It was a good race between these two animals and Racing Heart only asserted his superiority in the last hundred yards or so. Much was expected from Just That (Mr. Deltz) but she ran indifferently and, I thought, cracked up about half a mile from home.

DECEMBER HANDICAP
A good race was witnessed in the December Handicap between King's Warden (Mr. Heard) and Cosack's Beauty (Mr. Phi) in which the former ran on most gamely, under pressure, to win by a length and a half. Hotman (Mr. Davis) finished third, a length further away. He apparently had not fully recovered from his "pace" making mission in the St. Andrew's Stakes. Bobnik Star (Mr. Butler) was made favourite for the Barrier Reef Handicap, and he did not betray the confidence reposed in him as he won most convincingly by four lengths. High Finance (Mr. P. P. Botelho) had the better of the argument in running, and beat Dinky (Mr. Davis) by three lengths for the second place.

TARDY HANDICAP
Two exceedingly good races were seen in the Tardy Handicap, and the Dilatory Plate, the verdict in each case being a head between the first and second pony, and a head (Continued on Page 9.)

BACKING JOCKEY'S MOUNTS

Invariably Shows A Big Loss

One of the systems of betting which finds favour with many people during the flat race season is backing jockey's mounts. If you do this consistently you are bound to lose—except in very rare instances.

Eleven of the twelve leading jockeys this year, if followed on a $1 staking system, would show a big loss; in the case of the champion, Gordon Richards, it would be as much as $150.

The only one of them with a balance on the right side would be Perryman, who next year is to ride for Lord Derby.

The fault, of course, does not rest with the jockey. The most-sought-after of them are bound to ride many more losers than winners, and the prices of the winners of men like Richards are normally so short that they cannot balance the stakes that have gone.

U.S. MARINES

Only six of the famous side of 1929 took the field yesterday at Happy Valley but that number included Rasmussen, who never fails to thrill the spectators. Possessing an amazing turn of speed he was outstanding and his try which opened the Marines account was one of the best seen on the Club ground this season. Taking a pass midway down the field he broke out from the rest of the players, swerved past Rawlinson and with another spectacular swerve a few yards further on passed Hemens to ground the ball between the posts.

Taken as a whole the Marines were much faster than the Cornwall, especially in the pack. Wherever the ball went three or four of the visitors were in attendance. They were also much heavier but were forced to concede many of the tight scrums to the sailors. Their kicking was also of a very high order, many dangerous situations being relieved by long touch-kicking.

The Cornish "threes" were weak in sending and taking passes, many of their muffed efforts giving their opponents a decided advantage when they brought their feet into play. Lt. Cmdr. Neame played a good game at the base of the scrum and was seen in many movements. Lt. Webster was another prominent player.

They Navy team opened the scoring after about ten minutes play when Galletly landed a nice penalty goal. Thereafter, until the interval the Marines pressed strongly but could not get over the line.

Then came Rasmussen's try shortly after the interval which he himself converted to put the Marines ahead. Lt. Moe increased the lead when he fell on the ball as it went over following some close play near the corner flag. A penalty kick for the Cornwall near the "25" proved fruitless and with a minute to go they looked a beaten team. Just before the final whistle, however, Hume crossed over for Galletly to majorise and level the scoring.

KWANTI STEEPLECHASE
RACE CARD.The Grand NationalTOM WALLS' SECRET
HORSE

(By W. F. Sanderson)

Mr. Tom Walls hopes to win the Grand National next year with a horse ridden by his son. The ex-policeman film star, actor, jockey, racehorse trainer, and owner of a Derby winner (April the Fifth) has made an entry—the name is a secret—for the world's greatest steeplechase, run at Liverpool.

"You will see," he says, "I think I shall win it."

You cannot beat Tom Walls for optimism. I suggested that it would be a grand idea if once again he went into training and rode the horse himself.

"I'm afraid that can't be done," I should have the R.S.P.C.A. after me if I did that, but we are going to keep it in the family."

When Tom Walls, sen., said that his Grand National horse would be ridden by Tom Walls jun., the secret was nearly out.

Did not Tom Walls jun. ride Crafty Alice to victory in the Grand Military Gold Cup Steeplechase at Sandown Park last March?

Of course that is a guess, and Tom Walls may have another surprise up his sleeve. He did say to me, "Wait till 'Liverpool'. I'll have another April the Fifth surprise for you, but this time it will be in the Grand National."

Mld. Sturdy, Mld. Rawlinson, Marine Hume; Lt. Cmdr. Neame, Lt. Webster; Lt. Cmdr. Atkins, E. R. A. Galletly, E. R. A. Dibsdall, Marine Harris, A. B. Tucker, A. B. Wilson, Lt. Ford, and Lt. Cope-man.

U. S. Marines: Zajac; Galle, Bateman, Holmes, Barnes; Arbue, Rasmussen; Goochall, Moe, Forster Ford, Marion, La Roach, Snyder and Cheek.

CUPNEW FORM OF BETTING

(BY "CAPT. FOSTER.")

The first meeting under N. H. Rules takes place next Sunday at Kwanti. The first race will be run at 2.30 p.m. and the Card consists of five events, including the popular Ladies' race.

The Stewards of the Fanling Hunt and Race Club are to be congratulated in their endeavour to popularize the Meetings by making the betting more attractive, especially in these none too flourishing days. Instead of the customary win and place Pari-Mutuels, we shall see a new form of betting, known as the "wire" system in Australia where, I gather, it is very popular. In future, there will be one form of betting, and holders of tickets will receive dividends in the order of the finish. The winner will receive 60% of the Pool, less betting tax, etc., etc., and the second and third ponies 20% each.

I cannot say very much regarding the ponies competing next Sunday, as the training of the majority of them over jumps has been somewhat restricted.

For the first race, The Volunteers' Hurdle race, I think Widnes should score easily, with Mouche and Roundhead second and third.

The Club de Recreio second team will be represented by the following in their match on Saturday against the Royal Engineers: King's Park; I. M. Fernandes; E. J. Silva and E. Lawrence; R. Laurel, C. Figuerido and H. A. Remedios; C. A. Marques, H. Campos, C. Santos, L. Castilho and A. Alves.

CLUB ELEVEN

The Club, who meet the Police for First Division points tomorrow will be represented by the following:—Rodger; Gamble, S. Stranger; Hynes, Skinner, Duncan; Fowler, Brown, Howe, E. Strange and Bickford.

The Club second string will be represented by the following in their Second Division match against South China: Payne; Ralton, Binnie; McKellar, Forrow, Nicholls; G. Williams, Fisher, G. Duncan, Bitter and Sloan.

position pretty stiff in the Tai Po Steeplechase Handicap, as I can see Wakefield, Sticky Past and Rac'ng Pluck making him go a good gallop all the way. With more schooling, I think, Rac'ng Pluck will make his presence felt in subsequent steeplechases at Kwanti. In any case, I shall not be surprised to see him register a win on his first appearance on Sunday.

Punch is supposed to be "a good bet" for the Tally-ho Hurdle race.

LAST
MEETING

between the second and third now. We could not be treated to better finishes, more especially to wind up the Season.

Ribble (Mr. P. P. Botelho) just won the Tardy Handicap from Monoplane and Valorous (Mr. Heard). Valorous was not too well placed in the run-in, but for this I think he would have just about won the race.

Great Hall (Mr. Pih) was, I think, fortunate to secure the head verdict from Iron Grey (Mr. P. P. Botelho) and Heart's Glory (Mr. Belz). Iron Grey, to my mind, was an unlucky loser; he could not come through until too late but when an opening did present itself, he came up very fast and was rapidly overhauling Great Hall, but did not quite get up to secure first place.

The finish of the Finale Plate was in a way somewhat a surprise to me as I did not think Little Beauty (Mr. W. H. Choy) would be beaten. In the race, especially when coming into the straight, he looked all over a winner until about a hundred yards from home. Delightful Chance (Mr. F. F. Li) came on the scene very fast and eventually won somewhat easily by two and a half lengths. Soldier of Fortune (Mr. H. A. de B. Botelho) also sprinted and passed the now tiring Little Beauty near the winning post to finish second.

Soldier of Italy and The Goat should fill the minor places. Marina, I understand, is shaping nicely but she strikes me as being "too big" to be dangerous on Sunday.

The Lofter is my fancy for the Ladies' Scurry and I think he will be followed home by Red Leaves and Kung.

For the St. John's Cup over approximately three miles of fair hunting country, Tom Cobley should experience no difficulty in another win to his credit.

Winchester Stag should finish second and Skewbald Griffin third.

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

Somewhere in the world, in a private collection, or on the dusty shelves of a second-hand book store, there is a book that Allison Skipworth would pay a lot of money to own once more. In fact, after thirty years, the Paramount actress now featured in "Tillie and Gus" with W. F. Fields and "Baby LeRoy," coming on Sunday to the King's Theatre, is still searching for it. The volume is Oscar Wilde's "The Happy Prince," with an epigram across the fly leaf penned by the author himself to the actress forty years ago. The epigram, as Miss Skipworth remembers it, reads: "Advice to a bride: Never worry over trifles and still less over serious matters. It is impossible to exaggerate the unimportance of everything." In her latest picture, "Tillie and Gus," Miss Skipworth returns to the company of W. F. Fields with whom she scored such a brilliant success in the "Road-Hog" episode in the picture, "If I Had a Million." This time she and Fields play the roles of Tillie and Gus Winterbottom, a pair of psalm-singing, nimble-fingered cardsharps.

"Treasure Island"

The generations of people both young and old who have been thrilled by "Treasure Island," Robert Louis Stevenson's famous story of pirate adventure, will find the vivid story-book experience of their youth created on the screen in the picture that opens to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre with Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper in co-starring roles. Full power of the most wide-read fiction book about pirates ever written has been retained in the adaptation of it by John Lee Mahlin. Scenes have been reproduced exactly as described in the book with much of Stevenson's own dialogue between the characters followed to the word. With Beery as Long John Silver and Jackie Cooper as Jim Hawkins, boy adventurer, a cast has been assembled to bring each rover of the Spanish Main to the screen with living reality. Lionel Barrymore's blustering Billy Bones is one of the most entertaining characters he has ever played; Otto Kruger is forceful as Dr. Livesey; Lewis Stone's personal knowledge of sailing ships gives convincing background to his role of Captain Smollett; Nigel Bruce is a ruddy and typically English Squire Trelawney; touches of quaint humour are put into the characterisation of Ben Gunn, marooned pirate, by Chic Sale. Every minor role was evidently cast with extreme care as such well known character players as William V. Mong, Charles McNaughton, Douglas Dumbrille, Edmund Breace, Olin Howland, Charles Erwin, James Burke and Little Cora Sue Collins contribute notable performances. Every pictorial beauty and action value in the story has been brought out by the direction of Victor Fleming, who has filmed such adventure stories as "Rendezvous" and "Around the World in 80 Minutes."

"She Learned About Sailors"

"She Learned About Sailors" is showing at the Oriental Theatre to-day and to-morrow, starring—Low

Ayres and Alice Faye. Alice Faye, beautiful blonde, playing the role of a smart girl who sing in a night club in an Asiatic Oriental resort. Low Ayres, the champion heart-breaker of the U.S. Navy, who takes shore leave and fall like a ton of bricks for the fair Faye. Frank Mitchell and Jack Durant, America's greatest knockabout vaudeville funsters, portraying Lew's sailor buddies. They take it upon themselves to regulate and straighten out the latter's romantic tangles with Alice Faye, thereby causing no end of ludicrous complications. That's the set-up, the film is one of the fastest, funniest and gayest films to be released from Hollywood. To add to the hilarious comedy of the story, the film is tinged with spicy and zesty song numbers that promise to be real hits. Alice Faye sings "Here's the Key to My Heart."

"Hollywood Speaks"

The feature showing at the Alhambra Theatre to-day is "Hollywood Speaks," Columbia picture built around the inside workings of the motion picture industry. Genevieve Tobin and Pat O'Brien head a large cast, which includes Rita La Roy, Leni Stengel, Lucien Prival and Ralf Harlowe. It was directed by the crafty musical comedy star, Eddie Buzzell, from a story by Norman Krasna and Jo Swerling.

"The Black Cat"

Everyone remembers Edgar Allan Poe's masterful tale, "The Black Cat." It was full of horror and terror and certainly not the kind of a story one would like to hear on a dark and stormy night. But Universal has come out with its own version of "The Black Cat," now showing at the King's Theatre. It was written by Peter Ruric, who took his inspiration from the Poe thriller. And for a coup-de-grace, there is "Frankenstein" and "Dracula" together for the first time, in other words, Karloff and Lugosi. The supporting cast has David Manners and Jacqueline Wells supplying the love interest, and Egon Brecher, Anna Duncan, Herman Bing, Lucille Lund and many others. The

SERIAL STORY

The Clue Of The Forgotten Murder:

By CARLETON KENDRAKE

CHAPTER XXXIX

Griff nodded to the lawyer. "You tell him," he said.
Fisher turned, facing Bleeker. "At the time the cheque was cashed," he said, speaking slowly and with grave emphasis, "the plot, whatever it was, was about to culminate. This man, Malone, knew that Cathay would not be in a position to make any complaint. In other words he had anticipated the death of Frank B. Cathay, in which event the cancelled cheque, with the forged signature would be found among his effects. A check-up of the hotel register would show that Cathay was registered there that night; that the man who had cashed the cheque had exhibited documentary evidence showing he was the real Frank Cathay. Of course the real Cathay would not come up until months after Cathay's death, when the estate had been probated and the claim of this man, Malone, whatever the nature of it, would be presented against the estate and brought up to the court. As you are doubtless aware, litigation takes time and is subject to annoying delay.

"The attorneys representing the Malone claim, whatever its nature, would demand that the estate produce all documents and vouchers which were in its possession. The cancelled cheque could not have been before his death. It would, therefore, destroyed because it would have come into the possession of the estate instead of the possession of Cathay before his death. It would, therefore, make an excellent demonstration of the genuineness of the forged signature.

"And what," asked Bleeker, "is the nature of this claim that Malone is to make?"
"I wish I knew," Fisher said. "I can surmise and I can suspect, but my obligations to my client, gentlemen, prevent me from communicating my suspicions or my surmises. It even goes so far as to seal my lips upon facts, save such facts as I believe I may communicate without detriment to my client."

Griff stared in fixed concentration at the patterned carpet of the hotel hallway.

"I think," he said slowly, "that I see what you have in mind."
"I am quite sure you do," Fisher said readily enough. "But I cannot confirm your surmises, and I do not wish to. You can, however, appreciate the importance of getting Frank Bliss into custody and getting an interview with Mrs. Blanche Malone before Peter Malone goes to get in touch with her. Naturally also, it becomes vitally important to apprehend Peter Malone."

"Don't you think," Griff asked, "that Peter Malone has done all that he cares to do; that he has fully performed his part in the scheme of things and is now ready to vanish?"
"I think," Fisher said, "he already has vanished."

"Your plan?" asked Griff.
"I think," Fisher said, "we should call upon Mrs. Blanche Malone. She should be able to say something, but Griff checked him with a pressure of thumb and forefinger on the publisher's elbow.

"Do you," asked the criminologist, "know anything about an Esther Ordway or Alice Lorton, as the case may be?"
Fisher scowled.
"No," he said. "Why?"
"Only," Griff told him, "because she is mixed into the case in some way. That is, the woman is mixed in the Morden murder case. She and a Kenneth Boone were taken into custody to-day by the police and are now being interrogated. It is possible that she has already made some statements."

"You consider the murder of Morden connected with the plan of this Peter Malone?" the lawyer inquired.
"I think," Griff said, "there cannot be the slightest doubt about it. Morden found out something. He was murdered because it was vital that this information Morden had acquired be suppressed and the conspirators decided to silence Morden's lips before he could convey that information to his newspaper."

"I think you're right," the attorney said, "but I do not care, at the present time, to allow myself to get side-tracked on the matter of this Morden murder. After all, you must admit it may have been due to other causes. In other words, it may be one of those coincidences which happen in real life and which are so baffling to an investigator. For instance, it is very possible that this woman, Esther Ordway, actually had no connection with the Cathay case whatever, but that Morden thought she had some information either about the case or about the man who had murdered Morden."

"No gentlemen, while I think that theory is, perhaps, sound, I must refuse to be misled by it. I prefer to keep to the main trail."

"But," Bleeker said, "we have evidence that Cathay left his car near the apartment house where this woman lived; that he spent some time in her apartment and—"

"That is what I am conceding," Fisher said, "that the woman, Cathay, or that Morden thought she had some contact with Cathay. It makes little difference which. My point remains unshaken, that Morden's death may have nothing whatever to do with the conspiracy that I am investigating."

Griff nodded. "I see your point," he said, "although I am not inclined to agree with it."
"Whether you agree with it or not," Fisher said, "you must admit the logic of refusing to be drawn into a hot trail. We are now in a position to run down the conspiracy against Cathay. We have brought home to Frank Bliss a grave suspicion of having been implicated in the murder of Frank Cathay."

"You think it was a murder?" Griff asked.
"Beyond any doubt," Bleeker said.
"Go on," Griff said.
"We have," the lawyer went on, "secured the address of Blanche Malone and I say to you gentlemen that it is by no means improbable that Blanche Malone is the one who is to profit by the years of preparation which have been made by Peter Malone; that it is not inconceivable that Malone was prepared to make it appear that he and Cathay were one and the same person, and that Mrs. Malone, her marriage once having been established, is, in fact, the surviving wife of Frank Cathay."

Bleeker's eyes sparkled with sudden understanding.
"Good heavens!" he said. "That must be it! But can it hold up in view of the testimony of this young woman?"

"That," Fisher said, "remains to be seen. But, of course, that is the thing I am trying to do—to thwart this conspiracy. I think, gentlemen, it will better if I go to see Mrs. Malone without having you along. The interests of my client are vitally involved. I pledge you to make a complete disclosure of whatever I find out. After I have talked with her you may talk with her, but I think you will agree it may be much more profitable to get a complete statement from her if I talk with her alone than if I have an audience."

Griff nodded. "That," he said, "is fair enough."

"Where," asked Bleeker, "can we get in touch with you after you have finished your interview with Mrs. Malone?"

"I would suggest," Fisher said, "that you go to Mr. Griff's office and wait there. I will telephone as soon as I have discovered anything of importance."

"My office," Griff said, "is where I live. It's a combination of bachelor's apartment and office. I will give you one of my cards and I will assign to you an unlisted telephone number. Whenever you call on this telephone I will know that you are the one who is speaking."

He took a card from his case, scribbled a telephone number on the back of it, handed it to the attorney.

"Now," said Fisher, "we're commencing to get somewhere."

He jabbed his finger against the call button on the side of the elevator shaft.

The men rode down in the elevator in silence. Fisher strode toward the door.

"I'll call you," he said, and then caught the eye of the doorman.

"Tall," he called.

"Uncertain Lady"
Ladies, how certain are you of your men? Get some pointers from "Uncertain Lady," Universal's gaily sophisticated comedy which is now showing at the Queen's Theatre. This hilarious, smart and modern screen drama is one of the high lights of this season and has an excellent cast headed by Edward Everett-Horton and Genevieve Tobin. Just imagine a wife giving up her husband to another woman on a business proposition—if the other woman will find her another husband equally as good! It sounds crazy, but that's exactly what happened in "Uncertain Lady." Horton and Miss Tobin are ideally paired in this intensely amusing story, while the supporting cast include such players as Paul Cavanagh, George Meeker, Renee Gadd, Mary Nash, Dorothy Peterson, Arthur Hoyt, Herbert Cortell, Gay Sealbrook and many others. Karl Freund, one of Hollywood's ace directors, who made "The Mummy" with Karloff, "Moonlight and Pretzels," "Madame Spy" and "Countess of Monte Cristo," performed an admirable job on this picture.

ACTION OF GOVERNMENT DEFENDED.

Its conduct of the case attacked by the defence, and being also threatened with costs, the Crown yesterday had one of its law officers, the Assistant Crown Solicitor, Mr. W. J. Lockhart-Smith, to represent it in the proceedings previously conducted by the Assistant Superintendent of Imports & Exports against the Sino-American Optical Co. dealers in fountain pens and automatic pencils, of 238 Queen's Road Central, for infringements of trade descriptions on these goods. The case was heard before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy.

For the defence, Mr. H. L. Denny submitted that the Sino-American Co. had purchased those goods in perfectly good faith, not knowing they were not American. The goods were not American. They were produced by the defendants.

Mr. Denny had then strongly criticised the proceedings as not having been undertaken with due care in view of the absence of a written complaint from the aggrieved party. He contended that the written complaint was an essential preliminary before action could be taken. The subsequent seizure of the goods, Mr. Denny said, had the authority only of the Superintendent of Imports & Exports and this took the form of a writ from that functionary to a subordinate.

Crown's Statement

Replying to this yesterday, the Assistant Crown Solicitor said the requirement of a written statement by the Attorney-General or the Superintendent of Imports & Exports was a matter entirely left to these two officials and was clearly indicated by the words "may require" in the Regulations issued in April last under the Merchandise Marks Ordinance.

The Ordinance and Regulations, Mr. Lockhart-Smith went on to say, were no more than those upon which the Board of Trade had acted at Home. Regulations, with the discretionary powers left to the Attorney-General or Superintendent of Imports & Exports, were designed to stop frivolous complaints, enabling those citizens to deal in an effective way with an increasingly extensive practice that was endangering the legitimate trade of the Colony, while saving private expense in a matter affecting the public interests.

Defendant Convicted

After hearing evidence given by the manager of the defendant company, his Worship decided to convict, and on the two counts contained in the

TREND OF CURRENCY POLICIES

London, Dec. 20. Although sterling has once again started to weaken, there have not been any large withdrawals of foreign balances from London and the Exchange Fund is only intervening sparingly.

The recommendations of the National Resources Board caused a weakening of the dollar in terms of francs, although fears for the future of the franc continue firm on the better Continental situation.

The market is interested in the after action of the United States Congress, especially as regards silver.

It is pointed out that the United States Treasury still needs over 1,000,000,000 ounces of silver to obtain the desired ratio of 25 to 75 between silver and gold stocks.

Moreover, the Treasury's difficulties recently have been increased by shipments of gold from Europe to New York.

Some quarters expect that Congress will press for a more forceful carrying out of the silver policy. It is also pointed out that, in the event of intensified American buying, Chinese smuggling might easily prove too heavy a burden for China, forcing the Government to reconsider the pros and cons of devaluation.

Costs were not asked by the Crown, and Mr. Denny on behalf of the defendants also dropped the question of costs he raised on the dismissal of the previous summons.

Before closing the case, Mr. Lockhart-Smith reported that a fortnight after the seizure of the goods now the subject of the summons, pens resembling Parker pens were found, in the same shop, which were made in Germany but which had this inscription scratched out and "U.S.A." substituted. The prosecution, however, was not taking further action in the matter, but were warning the offending firm.

"We are satisfied," said the Assistant Crown Solicitor, "with the result of the present proceedings, provided that offence does not occur again. I may add we have not brought this prosecution in a vindictive way. The more we can do to stop what has become an extensive practice, the better, we believe, it will be for the mercantile community of Hongkong."

ARMY OF PEACE

BRITISH AND ITALIAN TROOPS IN THE SAAR

London, Dec. 20. A further party of British troops arrived in the Saar yesterday. A detachment of officers and forty men of the East Lancashire Regiment and a similar party of the Essex Regiment reached Saarbrücken this morning and proceeded immediately to their quarters at Bröbach and Gruba Hainitz. Over a hundred Army Service Corps and Medical Corps personnel arrived by the same train and remained at Saarbrücken.

The troops received a most cordial welcome from the French civil and military authorities on the journey across France, and took breakfast as guests of the French Army at Thionville.

The main body of the half brigade of infantry, Composing the British part of the International Force, leaves England tomorrow and will be accorded an official reception on landing at Calais early in the afternoon.

The Italian troops for the Saar were reviewed by Signor Mussolini, at Rome yesterday, and one battalion left in the evening.—British Wireless.

CHINA'S PURCHASES

NEARLY £2,000,000 WORTH OF BRITISH PRODUCTS

London, Dec. 20. The order for 19 third-class steel sleeping cars, totalling £200,000, for the Southern Section of the Canton-Hankow Railway, from the Birmingham Railway Carriage and Wagon Company will bring the orders from Great Britain by the Chinese Government Purchasing Commission, from January 1, to a grand total of £1,745,000.

The orders include: four steamers, at about £300,000; 34 locomotives, 225 freight cars and the Nanjing-Pukow ferry boat, for £155,000; rails, 415,000; steel and ship buildings, £30,000; and a quantity of general railway equipment, mostly for the Canton-Hankow Railway, also for the Kiaoai and Honan Railways.

In addition to these orders, a power station, at £10,000, telephone equipment for the nine provinces, wireless apparatus, and reinforcing steel bars have been supplied to the Chinese Commission by British firms.—Reuter.

CHINA COAST SHIPS' OFFICERS TO STRIKE

DEMANDING FAIR WAGE SCALE

ARBITRATED RATES NOT RESPECTED

LONG-DRAWN DISPUTE WITH OWNERS

WALK-OUT ON DEC. 29

The first round in one of the biggest local shipping struggles for many years has commenced with the decision of the China Coast Officers' Guild to call a strike at midnight on December 29 in an effort to secure observance on the part of the owners of Chinese-owned river and coastal vessels of the recognised scale of wages.

There are about 40 British officers affected and they are backed up by 97 per cent. of the members of the Guild.

Twelve vessels are involved so far, namely the steamers Anjou, Chuen Chow, Chung On, Fook On, Kwong Fook Cheong, Lee Hong, On Lee, San Nam Hoi, Tai Lee, Tai Shan, Yingsang, and Yuet On.

The Indo-China Steam Navigation Co., the China Navigation Company, and the Hongkong, Canton & Macao Steamboat Company, and certain Chinese companies, which observe the recognised scale, are not concerned in the matter.

Instructions have been drafted, and will soon be issued, to the effect that the officers will stand by their ships at the emergency hours to protect them, and they will only leave on instructions from their owners.

All negotiations with the owners will be through the Guild, and the strike will not be called off until all the companies agree to the terms.

"The terms are simply that these companies will abide by the Hongkong Arbitration Award signed in May, 1920, which laid down a scale of wages," said Mr. W. E. Kirby, Secretary of the Guild, this morning.

CAUSE OF TROUBLE

"The present position has come about through undesirable persons—unfortunately some of them members of our own Guild—who have offered their services to some of these owners for less than they had been paying their officers."

"The companies took advantage of these offers and informed each other of the wages they could get men for, so that in a number of cases captains of ships are actually getting less than some girl stenographers. Some, with wives and families to maintain, are getting less than $200, with perhaps $25 food allowance."

"We have managed at last to weed out the men who were responsible for originating this state of things and we are now determined to force the companies to get back to the arbitration scale which was arrived at after the dispute of 1919."

"SHAMEFULLY LOW"

"Some officers are forced to accept shamefully low wages because they are threatened with the loss of their jobs if they protest, and the hardship is emphasised by the fact that they get no pensions, no home leave, and ridiculously poor food allowances."

"These grievances have been felt for some years and now that we have cleaned up practically all our own offending members we are not going to give way until the companies do their bit."

"Some of the companies have written to us pointing out that they were not signatories to the Award, but our reply to that is that the Award's scale of wages is the only one recognised by the Guild in respect of 'outside' river and coastal vessels."

"The companies who have written us to that effect are the Sze (Continued on Page 5.)

SEVEN MEN ON BOARD

Baghdad, Dec. 20.

The Dutch airmen aboard the plane which Parmentier and Mol piloted in the England-Australia marathon have now been missing about twenty-four hours. Small hope is entertained that they have not met with serious accident.

Twenty-four British aeroplanes are joining in the search for the missing ship.

Official quarters here have grave fears for the fate of the machine.

Last heard of over Gaza, after she had left Cairo, the Dutchmen flashed an "All Well" message at midnight.

They were attempting a 15,000 mile flight, from Amsterdam to the Dutch East Indies and return, carrying Christmas mails, and expected to complete the journey in five days.—Reuter.

DESERT SEARCH

London, Dec. 20.

British aeroplanes and armoured cars are searching the desert for the Dutch Douglas air liner carrying the Christmas mails from Holland to Batavia, of which nothing has been heard since it passed Gaza, Palestine, on its way to Baghdad last night.

A terrific thunderstorm occurred during the night in this area, and it is feared the liner was forced down. Bad visibility and the state of the ground make the search difficult both for aircraft and land vehicles.

The liner carried three passengers and a crew of four, including the pilots, Messrs. Beckman and Van Stenberg. She is the machine which arrived second in the Melbourne race, when she became known as the "flying hotel."

Manchukuo Recognition Advisable?

LONDON PAPER'S COMMENT

DIPLOMATIC FICTION

London, Dec. 20.

The Morning Post, editorially summarizing the report of the Federated British Industries Mission to Manchukuo, will welcome the conclusions of the investigators regarding the co-operation of Anglo-Japanese industry.

The Morning Post is of the opinion that a reasonable adjustment would benefit both nations. It adds that the general atmosphere of goodwill created was perhaps the most valuable result of the Mission's trip.

It was a pertinent subject for inquiry whether the time were not already approaching when diplomacy ought to reconsider its attitude towards the recognition of Manchukuo. No useful purpose was served by preserving the diplomatic fiction that Manchukuo was still a part of China, the editorial says.—Reuter.

BLUNT ADVICE TO OPERATORS

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received, December 21, 8.30 a.m.)

Boston, Dec. 20.

Mr. Joseph B. Eastman, for many years associated with the organizing of railway employees, in a speech here to-day declared that American railroads were suffering partly from monopoly and partly from dry rot.

He urged a system of co-operation to maintain the modern pace. He recommended, first, fair prices in freight and passenger services; second, co-operation and elimination of wasteful and useless competition; and thirdly, the modernising of equipment.—United Press.

GUARDING PANAMA CANAL

NO FEAR OF ATTACK

RESPONSE TO CRITIC

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received, December 21, 8.30 a.m.)

Washington, Dec. 20.

High Army and Navy officers declare here that they are able to defend the Panama Canal in any emergency.

They are most interested in the allegations of the Panama publisher, Mr. Roussell, who says that the Canal is improperly guarded, but believe that he over-estimates the possibility of attack and underestimates the available protection.

Army officers admitted, however, that it would be almost impossible to prevent a couple of vessels laden with explosives entering the canal at opposite ends. They could be blown up simultaneously as they were passing in the locks and thus effectually block the channel.

They point out that it would be suicidal for aviators to bomb the canal, and though they might put it out of commission temporarily the authorities are planning to guard against them by erecting a system of steel nets over the locks as soon as funds are available.—United Press.

Denial Of Inflation Intention

LONDON RUMOUR CONTRADICTED

CHINA SILVER QUESTION

Shanghai, Dec. 21.

It is authoritatively learned that the Chinese Government has no intention of resorting to currency inflation or the devaluation of the silver dollar, despite strong rumours to this effect which were recently circulated in Shanghai and London.

The rumours are believed to have arisen out of a series of meetings recently held between the Nanking financial authorities and the leading Chinese banks. But the deliberations at the meetings were solely connected with the problem of how to check the smuggling of silver out of the country.

Local financial circles are assured by the Government that it has never contemplated the devaluation of the silver dollar, which was impracticable in China.—Central News.

RUSSIAN REBELS EXPOSED

STALIN PROMISES VENGEANCE

WILL NOT REST UNTIL ENEMIES DESTROYED

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received, Dec. 21, 12.30 p.m.)

Warsaw, Dec. 20.

An official radio announcement from Moscow states that the noted Communist leader M. Gregori Zinovieff and his associate, M. Kamenev, were placed under arrest on Thursday, charged with plotting the murder of the Soviet official, Kirov, who was shot in his office in Leningrad about two weeks ago.

The two men were arrested at the gates of the Kremlin after they had been talking to M. Stalin, "Iron Dictator" of Russia.

The announcer remarked: "Now at least we know who and where the enemy is."

Afterwards, the announcer read a statement authorised by Stalin himself, which read in part: "I shall not rest until the last man of the Zinovieff-Kamenev opposition is destroyed."—United Press.

LABOUR SHOCKED

London, Dec. 21.

Reports from Warsaw, neither confirmed nor denied, announcing that Zinovieff and Kamenev are under arrest in their homes, linked with tales of the recent mass executions in Russia, have greatly stirred the British Labour party.

The General Council of the T.U.C. and the National Executive of the Labour Party have passed resolutions that they are profoundly shocked and alarmed at the reprisals which have followed the murder of Kirov and which have taken the form of widespread and summary executions.

They urge that all those under arrest be afforded legal defence and public trial. A joint delegation from both bodies is seeking an interview with the Soviet Ambassador.

The Daily Herald stigmatises the executions as barbarous and unworthy of an advanced regime.—Reuter.

EARLIER REPORTS

London, Dec. 20.

The Evening Standard Moscow correspondent states that the notorious and mysterious Gregori Zinovieff, Russian revolutionary leader, once expelled from the Communist party because of attacks of Stalin but since re-instated, has been arrested in connection with the murder of the Soviet official, Kirov.

Zinovieff, it will be recalled, was said to have written a letter to English Communists in 1924 which suggested a plan for the Bolsheviking of the British army, and the publication of this document played a large part in overthrowing the Labour Government of Great Britain.

The Soviet Government refuses to confirm or deny that Zinovieff is in custody.

However, the Telegraph correspondent asserts that grave revelations in connection with the Kirov shooting are expected momentarily.

Zinovieff, it is said, is a member of this Opposition group. It is hinted that his associates were responsible for Kirov's murder, and since that crime was committed the Soviet authorities have been arresting suspected White Guards all over the country.

OTTO MAY REGAIN THRONE

RETURNING TO AUSTRIA

MONARCHISTS ACTIVE

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received, December 21, 9 a.m.)

Vienna, Dec. 20.

The Archduke Otto, claimant to the Throne of Austria, and his mother, the Empress Zita, are returning from their long exile and will take up residence in the Austrian Tyrol some time in January.

This move is reputedly made with the consent of Chancellor Dr. Schuschnigg and Vice-Chancellor Prince von Starheimberg.

Meanwhile, the Austrian and Hungarian monarchists are displaying feverish activity with a view to winning domestic support for the restoration of the monarchy, under Prince Otto, and foreign moral and material assistance. The first six months of 1935 will be their time of greatest effort.

Baron von Wieseberger will shortly go to Washington and New York to establish political and financial relations and secure American backing for Prince Otto's economic policies in the event of his restoration.—Reuter Special.

FINE PROSPECT FOR NEXT TURF YEAR

HIGH LIGHTS OF PAST SEASON'S SPORT

BY J. H. FREEMAN

THE end of the flat race season is an appropriate time to look ahead in the world of sport. The road in front is lighted, in many places vividly, by the events of the past few months; there are a few black patches, but the rays of common sense and good sportsmanship can banish the deepest gloom.

No racing season in the post-war period has contained more solid elements of confidence in the present and of faith in the future. The factors which a few seasons ago decided some of the best of our racing owners to reduce their commitments have disappeared.

No phase of our sporting activities is more sensitive than the Turf to general economic depression or an increased national capacity to earn more and the consequent ability to spend more.

From practically every racecourse in the country—particularly from the more enlightened ones where public amenities have been improved by a farseeing executive—comes the same tale of cheerfulness and hope.

The men who ten years or so ago put thousands of pounds into the thoroughbred industry are beginning to reap the reward of their

and Doncaster sales should be appraised at approximately twice the value of twelve months before. The ranks of owners in the year ahead will include a number of men and women recruits who, in these days of cheaper money, will find an outlet for their speculative inclinations in the possession of thoroughbred stock.

What appeal is there in "spare" money earning 2 per cent. compared with the thrills and delights of ownership of a horse that may win one of the Turf's great prizes?

Gallant old Brown Jack has gone a-hunting. Steve Donoghue, his inseparable companion on the racecourse, is fifty years young. Gordon Richards, for the second time in his career, has ridden more than 200 winners. The totalisator has stood up to its most formidable assault and justified its claim to receive off-the-course money through agents.

Can one view these things, even from afar, without feeling some of the romance of the past and sharing in the ever-increasing optimism of the future?

ONE REGRET

But there is one matter of indirect yet intimate concern with racing that is causing many thoughtful people real regret and a deep-rooted anxiety. It is that opportunity was not taken by Parliament when discussing the Betting and Lotteries Bill to clear up the muddle of our effete and unfair betting laws.

Instead of a firm and all-embracing measure that would have brought the whole subject in line with modern conditions and modern thought we have seen added to the Statute Book an Act that has already caused nation-wide confusion and that will lead to endless legal battles. It has placed within the scope of parliamentary sanction a form of betting that is dangerous socially, morally, and financially.

The position of football pool betting has nowhere caused more concern than in the higher legislative bodies connected with the winter game.

HASTY MEASURE

I have written on a number of occasions of the urgent need for fairness to both the man in the Sheffield factory and the man in the Pall Mall club when discussing betting reform. In the present hasty measure, which has given football pool betting a legal status, I believe Parliament has sown the seeds of incalculable mischief. I have been given evidence that in less than one week the number of firms dealing in this form of gambling—for gambling it is—has multiplied a hundredfold.

Pool betting allied to racing or football or any sport should be permitted only when the public is assured of the strongest possible safeguards. It is incomprehensible to me that a Parliament which imposed the most stringent guarantees, including a definite limitation of the percentage deduction from stake money, when setting up the Racecourse Betting Control Board should permit the unrestricted totting of the football public by private syndicates without any safeguards whatever.

In its half-hearted attempt to avoid "class legislation," Parliament has given greater opportuni-

BURNED BODY OF DEAD BABY

Arthur Mason (44), a railway employee, of Great Ancoats Street, Manchester, who was found not guilty at Manchester Assizes of murdering an infant of three months, appeared in the same Court recently before Mr. Justice Atkinson.

He was charged with being an accessory after the fact, and with having obstructed the Coroner in the execution of his duty by burning the body of the infant.

He pleaded guilty to both charges, and was sentenced to 16 days' imprisonment, the sentence to date from the beginning of the Assize. That meant his immediate release.

The Judge said he had taken the same view as the jury, who had accepted his story as the truth.

Mason had been placed in a terrible predicament. He had had to choose between giving up his wife for what might be murder, and with doing what he could to protect her from the trouble. He had broken the law. The Judge thought most men would have done the same.

It was stated that the railway company with whom Mason had been for the last 20 years would take him back at once to enable him to make a new start.

The wife, Elizabeth Mason, died in Strangeways Jail while awaiting trial. It was stated that she was very ill when she came home after the birth of the child.

But to end on a more pleasant note. Circumstances never likely to be repeated conspired to impose on English cricket in the past summer one of its most emphatic defeats. But the immediate future is made infinitely more hopeful by the decision reached this week by the Advisory Committee of the M.C.C.

I regard the experimental change in the l.h.w. law as an epoch-making step in the re-education of our cricketers. If with its permanent adoption we could get a return to the natural wicket, we should have nothing to fear from any country prepared to play cricket as a game and not as a test of physical endurance.

UNUSUAL DUAL PERSONALITY

STRANGE EVIDENCE AT COURT MARTIAL

Medical evidence suggesting that a soldier had a dual personality, and that he spent a week at Brighton without his other self realising it, was given at an Aldershot court martial, when Company Quartermaster-Sergeant James Taylor that if he could get to London, where his battalion was then stationed, he could refund the money.

Major H. B. F. Dixon, R.A.M.C., of Queen Alexandra's Hospital, Millbank, London, who was called by the defence, said that Taylor had been under observation for three months at the hospital. He had been examined by an eminent neurologist and a brain specialist, and they had formed the opinion that Taylor had suffered from epileptic automatism, and probably had a tumorous brain. Major master-Sergeant James Taylor (32), of the 2nd Battalion Cameron Highlanders, pleaded not guilty to charges of fraudulent conversion of £32 belonging to the sergeants' mess funds, and absence without leave for six days.

The prosecution alleged that Taylor gave himself up at Eastbourne as an absentee, and said that he had been on the drink, and that a wallet containing £20 was stolen from his hip-pocket in a Brighton dance hall. He added

Dixon added that in cases of epilepsy, a patient frequently passed into a state of automatism or dual personality, in which he might do ridiculous or criminal things without his other self realising he was doing wrong.

It was also stated that Taylor received a head injury in a motor accident seven years ago, and had since had occasional attacks of petit mal.

The finding of the Court will be promulgated.

foresight and their judgment. The fact that the Aga Khan after a wise but stupendous expenditure spread over many seasons has had successes, particularly with his two-year-olds, almost beyond belief, will be both a justification and an incentive.

GOOD PROSPECT

For if the season's two-year-olds, especially the colts, are of such unusual quality does not the season of 1935 promise to be of amazing excellence?

It is a sign of the times too that so comparative a newcomer to the ranks of breeders as Mr. M. H. Benson should be prepared to pay £50,000 for the Derby winner, Windsor Lad, before the 3-year-old had confirmed his brilliant success by carrying off the St. Leger.

YOUTH ROBS UNCLE

TO RAISE STEAMER FARE

On being brought before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy this morning, Ho Wan, aged 20, a metal-worker, was charged with stealing three brass lamp stands, a silver chain with appendage and three pieces of clothing, between December 9 and 19. Defendant pleaded guilty and was bound over.

Ho Lok, the defendant's uncle, of 334 Canton Road, Kowloon, appeared as complainant.

It was stated that the defendant was arrested in Lascar Row. He had in his possession the three lamp stands, which he was trying to sell. The defendant told the police that his uncle had given them to him to sell. When defendant was taken to the Police Station the silver chain was found in his possession, and a pawn ticket for the clothing.

Defendant stated that his grandmother was sick in Canton, and he wanted to go and see her. Complainant was away at the time, and he had no money, so he took the articles to raise the fare.

The Magistrate bound the defendant over in the sum of $75 for a period of 12 months, to come up for judgment when called upon.

SOLICITOR'S LUCKY ESCAPE

Mr. W. M. Brown, solicitor of Messrs. Hastings and Co., Gloucester Building, was involved in a motor car crash in the Hungnam district in the early hours of this morning. The car became lodged in a nullah, but Mr. Brown, who was travelling alone, was fortunately unhurt.

In a report to the traffic police, Mr. Brown stated that at 1.20 a.m. he was driving his car No. 390 along Cooke Street, towards Kowloon Docks, when he accidentally knocked against the railings of the nullah, causing damage to them. The car fell into the nullah and was smashed.

Three men, Ng Fun, Mak Hong and Mak Yee, and Li Min a woman with a babe in arms, appeared before Mr. Hamilton at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning charged in connection with unlawful receiving of 27 pairs of shoes and 12 odd shoes the property of the Bata Shoe Company. The complainant was Mr. K. Weiss, manager of the firm. Defendants were remanded to to-morrow.

Trade Mission For China

AMERICANS PLAN
1935 VISIT

SMALL ARMY OF INVESTIGATORS

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1924. Received, December 21, 1934 a.m.)

New York, Dec. 20. The National Foreign Trade Council, co-operating with the American-Chinese Trade Council in Shanghai, has announced that it is organising an American traders and a corps of secretaries who will compile data for an exhaustive report.

The object of the mission is to increase Sino-American trade which, many economists believe, is inevitably to become one of the greatest features of world commerce.

The mission will remain in China for three months. Mr. E. P. Thomas, President of the Foreign Trade Council, states. He is at present arranging the preliminaries for the trip.

The names of the members of the mission will be announced later.—United Press.

Many of them have been executed during the last few days.—United Press.

YOUNG REFORMER

Zinovief has for very many years been associated with extreme views. At the age of 18, he joined an illegal Socialist group in Russia and conducted propaganda amongst the workers. When threatened with arrest, he escaped abroad and studied at Berne University.

Later, he became a close follower of Lenin, and after the outbreak of the Great War he and Lenin were arrested by the Austro-Hungarian authorities, but they were later released and went to Switzerland.

Following the overthrow of Tsardom, both returned to Russia and became the chief instigators of the Bolshevik Revolution. When the Third Internationale was founded in 1919, Zinovief was elected its President.

UPSET LABOUR

Zinovief became notorious in 1924, when the British Foreign Office, just before the General Election, published the so-called "Zinovief letter" addressed to English Communists in which directions were given for the Bolshevising of the British Army.

The letter appeared in the press before the Labour Premier, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, had seen it, and the effect on Labour's prospects at the poll was disastrous. The Russian Government denied the authenticity of the letter, but the British Conservative Party, after an enquiry, pronounced it authentic. During the Schreck espionage trial in Berlin in 1928, the pacifist, Mertens, asserted that the letter had been concocted by Schreck and the former Polish Press Attaché, Paciorowski.

1,060 MILES IN FOUR HOURS

London, Dec. 20.

The De Havilland Comet plane in which Kenneth Waller, the Melbourne air race competitor, with the Belgian Captain Franchomme, left Brussels to-day on a flight to Leopoldville, in the Congo, to demonstrate the possibility of a fast air mail service along this route, landed at Oran this afternoon, having completed the 1,060 miles stage in 4 hours, 56 minutes, at a speed of 210 miles an hour. In view of the weather conditions it was expected that the flight would take at least seven hours.

The airman will to-morrow proceed to Nuamey, in French West Africa, 1,500 miles distant. The Comet is the type of machine in which Scott and Black won the Melbourne race.—British Wireless.

Assisting Shipping

ADMINISTRATION OF SUBSIDY

ADVISORY BODY SELECTED

London, Dec. 20.

The Advisory Committee of the Board of Trade for the administration of the Government grant of £2,000,000 a year to British tramp shipping, will consist of Sir Vernon Thomson, Chairman, six representatives of tramp shipping, two representatives of cargo liners and one independent representative of the public interest.

This announcement was made by Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, in the House of Commons to-day, during the consideration in Committee stage of the Shipping Assistance Bill.

A Labour amendment, providing that the Committee should consist of members uninterested in shipping, was defeated by 120 to 43.—Reuter.

Yap Steamship Co., the Chuen On Steamship Co., and the Sai Hing Steamship Co.

"It should be mentioned in connection with the employment of their ships carry several hundreds of passengers," added Mr. Kirby.

METHODS EXPOSED

Mr. Kirby further states that since the Guild wrote to the companies this month, the officers of two ships concerned have been approached by their respective owners offering them a small increase, but still below arbitration scale, asking them to sign on the ships' articles that they are in receipt of the arbitration wage.

Master and Chief Engineers of some ships have, Mr. Kirby further stated, been paid as low as a wage as $170 per month.

A point stressed by Mr. Kirby is that one or two of the bigger Chinese companies have been playing the game all through by paying the arbitration wage scale. There were no complaints against these companies; but the Guild was determined to bring the other Chinese companies to book.

ARBITRATION SCALE

The scale of wages laid down for "outside" ships under the arbitration award in the 1919 dispute was as follows:

Gross tonnage up to 250.—Master, $305; Chief Engineer, $300.

251 to 500 tons.—Master, $330; Chief Engineer, $310; Chief Officer and Second Engineer, $280.

501 to 750 tons.—Master, $355; Chief Engineer, $330; Chief Officer and Second Engineer, $290.

751 to 1,000 tons.—Master, $405; Chief Engineer, $355; Chief Officer and Second Engineer, $300.

1,001 to 1,500 tons.—Master, $455; Chief Engineer, $395; Chief Officer and Second Engineer, $310.

1,501 to 2,000 tons.—Master, $505; Chief Engineer, $440; Chief Officer and Second Engineer, $320.

Over 2,000 tons.—Master, $570; Chief Engineer, $500; Chief Officer and Second Engineer, $330.

Second Officer and Third Engineer all tonnages.—$245.

Third Officer and Fourth Engineer all tonnages.—$235.

Food Allowance.—Sea Going, $40; River $25.

NO NEED FOR DESPAIR

Whilst regret is naturally felt that the London naval conversations have produced no tangible results, it is satisfactory to note the strong hopes which are still entertained of an eventual understanding being reached between the Powers concerned. As the official communique on the adjournment states, the object of the conversations was not the reaching of hard and fast conclusions: they were designed for the purpose of preparing the ground for future negotiations and agreement. Japan's decision to denounce the Washington Treaty automatically carries with it the abandonment of the proposed Naval Conference next year, unless, which is hardly to be expected, fresh developments occur in the meantime leading to hopes of a solution acceptable to all parties. None the less, there is ample time left in which to seek an adjustment of viewpoint, inasmuch as the Washington Treaty will still remain in force for another two years. A great deal can happen in that time, and it is reassuring to feel that both Britain and United States are anxious that some plan should be evolved which would command general approval. In this connection, it must not be overlooked that although Japan is still insistent on equality, she has all through the conversations laid stress on the point that she does not desire unrestricted armaments competition, but wishes to replace the existing Treaty by a more comprehensive pact. Her willingness to enter into a sweeping disarmament understanding is also so much to the good. In short, there is evidence of a unity of purpose on the part of all three Powers, even though opinions be divided on the methods of attaining the desired end. The task which remains to be fulfilled is to bring the parties into closer alignment with a view to evolving a substitute for the Washington Treaty which shall serve the main purposes for which that document was devised. The alternative to this is a futile naval armaments race which would not only prove extremely costly to all engaged in it, but would not be any gain for Japan, since neither Britain nor the United States are prepared to concede actual equality. The net result would be that Japan would have merely added to her naval

NOTES OF THE DAY

SOMEBODY KNOWS

Not long ago we made enquiries as to what might be the future of Hongkong as an airport. We got no very satisfactory answer. From official sources we could get no information whatever, and the only response from private quarters was that it was hoped that various enterprises would include Hongkong in their air itineraries.
Whether permission to any but British owned and operated machines to trade in and through the Colony would be forthcoming, no one knew for certain. Meanwhile, all about the Colony, in the Philippines, in China, and farther afield, preparations were going forward to meet the demands of the future, to prepare for the advent of commercial air services, but no one apparently knew what Hongkong proposed to do in this direction. Now, according to Chinese news sources, Sir Alexander Cadogan, the British Minister, has announced that when the Canton-Hankow Railway is completed it is probable that Imperial Airways will connect with Hongkong. We have no assurance that this announcement is official, and just why Imperial Airways should wait upon the completion of the Canton-Hankow railway is not exactly clear. For whether or not this railway operates, Hongkong must eventually be joined in the world's air system, and the sooner plans are made for this development the better for this Colony.

MAKING HISTORY

An M. P. suggests that we are not making sufficient use of the possibilities of the cinema and wireless as means of preserving a permanent record, in sound and in scene, of events of historic importance. He instances the recent ceremony in the House of Lords, when the Duke of Kent took his seat, and the Royal opening of Parliament and the wedding of His Royal Highness and Princess Marina as events which should be fully recorded, not only for the benefit of posterity, but also for the edification of those British people at home and beyond the seas, who are thrilled by ceremonial that embodies so much of the traditions of our race. The B.B.C. and the news-film companies certainly do something in this direction, but the argument of the M.P. is that there is room for the systematic recording of episodes of patriotic or historic significance.
The theory that it is "vulgar" to yield to publicity is perishing fast.
Even our most revered institutions are letting in the limelight and finding themselves none the worse for it. The members of the Royal Family, too, are always ready to respond to the natural desire of their subjects to see and hear their various activities in the service of the nation. The value of the permanent records in the years to come is obvious. With what avidity would the present generation listen to a sound-film were such available, of landmark happenings of the Elizabethan, Cromwellian, or even the Victorian era! A few hundred years hence twentieth century sound-films of memorable occasions would not be less thrilling. However fur-lously man dashes along the highway of progress, he is never altogether oblivious to the magical appeal of the past.

AIRSHIPS PERSIST

It is interesting to notice that while many Americans have taken it for granted that the large dirigible will never have any practical use, the Germans are going calmly ahead with plans to put these big ships to work. Next March the Zeppelin workers at Friedrichshafen will complete the new dirigible even larger than the Graf of trans-Atlantic and world cruise fame
—a giant that will contain 25 staterooms for passengers, and elaborate equipment to ensure everyone's comfort. The Germans have by no means given up their confidence in the dirigible. On the contrary, they are planning for a day when airship lines will be as common as aeroplane lines. Is there not, perhaps, in that fact, an indication that we are a trifle hasty in assuming that the dirigible is and always must be impractical?

expenditure and still not have attained her desire. A point which needs stressing is that Anglo-American policy is primarily based on a recognition of the varying needs of the three Powers, and that neither the one country nor the other seeks to follow a course which would in any wise endanger Japanese security. When that aspect of the situation is fully appreciated, it should be possible to work out a plan to the mutual benefit of all the Powers concerned.

By MRS. FRANCIS LASCELLES

ROYAL marriages have always fascinated the people of these islands, who see in royal love matches the culmination of many ideals.

Undoubtedly the most momentous British royal wedding for centuries was that of Queen Victoria to Prince Albert, which took place on February 10, 1840. The fact that the bride was the reigning Sovereign of the most powerful Empire in the world lent tremendous importance to the event, and guests from all over the world poured into London.

Queen Victoria was barely 21 when she was married, and at the time she was a very attractive girl, inclined to plumpness, with fair skin, rosy cheeks, and blue eyes. In the preparations for her wedding Queen Victoria took the most minute interest.

The ceremony took place at the Chapel Royal, St. James's, and small though the building was, the wedding lacked nothing in splen-dour and dignity. The young Queen, with the blue ribbon of the Garter across her white dress, made a regal bride. Her tall husband looked handsome and distinguished.

The bridal procession, with its eight bridesmaids, was a glittering sight, and one of the attendants, it is interesting to recall, was the mother of the present Queen Mary.
The future Duchess of Teck was only seven years of age at the time, but she had a vivid remembrance of the great day to the end of her life.

The bridal pair were vociferously cheered by thousands of people all along the route, and the Queen and her bridegroom were all smiles as they drove back as man and wife. The honeymoon was spent at Windsor Castle and lasted only three days.

The next royal wedding which captured the imagination of the country—and, indeed, of all Europe—was the marriage of the Prince of Wales, afterwards King Edward VII., to Princess Alexandra of Denmark.

No more beautiful bride than the radiant "sea king's daughter" ever stepped before on British soil, and on landing at Gravesend she became at once the idol of the nation.

The marriage took place at St.
George's Chapel, Windsor, on March 10, 1863, and the scene in the historic and beautiful chapel was a never-to-be-forgotten one.
The bridal gown of dazzling white worn by Queen Alexandra was considered at the time to be the most artistic creation of its kind ever seen in Europe, and the eight bridesmaids were a collection of beauties unmatched at any royal wedding before or since. The celebrated Jenny Lind sang the chorale at the ceremony.

London, Windsor, and the country generally celebrated the wedding of the popular heir to the Throne with unbounded enthusiasm. All the London theatres were thrown open free to the public, bonfires were lit on nearly every hill in the country, official banquets and feasts to the poor were notable features of the celebrations.

The future King Edward and his lovely bride spent their honeymoon in the Isle of Wight, and to the end of their long lives their brilliant wedding day was a precious memory to them both.

The wedding of the present King and Queen on July 10, 1893, was solemnised in the Chapel Royal,
St. James's, and was a ceremony which made a particularly strong appeal to the nation.

The famous Dr. Benson was Archbishop of Canterbury at the time, and it was this distinguished prelate, assisted by the Bishop of London (Dr. Temple, later Archbishop of Canterbury) and the Bishop of Rochester (afterwards Archbishop Davidson), who performed the marriage ceremony.

Among the guests at the brilliant occasion in the Chapel Royal was the ill-fated Czar of Russia.
Queen Mary with her bright hair and rose and cream complexion was a typical English bride, and her dignity and beauty completely captured the multitudes of people who crammed the route to and from St. James's. The wedding breakfast was held in Buckingham Palace, and the honeymoon was spent at Sandringham.

The infectious smile of the Duchess and the pride on the face of her young husband will never be forgotten by anyone fortunate enough to have seen the couple drive away from the Abbey.

Another British royal wedding which aroused great interest was that of Princess Maud, the King's niece, and Lord Carnegie, who were married in November 1923.
This was the last wedding at which Queen Alexandra was present, and she delightedly threw confetti at the happy couple.

The marriage of Lady May Cambridge, the Queen's niece, to Captain Abel Smith, in October 1931 at the parish church in Bal-combe, Sussex, will ever be memorable as the first wedding at which Princess Elizabeth acted as bridesmaid.

The list of royal weddings this century is thus already a long one.
British royalties are now following the dictates of their hearts, and no marriages in Europe have been so uniformly successful as those contracted by the members of our reigning House.

There were few British royal marriages in the early part of the twentieth century. Another did not take place in England until 1913, when Prince Arthur of Connaught, the only son of the Duke of Connaught, married the Duchess of Fife, the daughter of the late Princess Royal. This was a royal romance which excited great public interest, and the young couple received a great ovation before and after the ceremony.

The Great War effectively put a stop to royal marriages—and even rumours of them—but the marriage in 1919 of the beloved Princess "Pat," daughter of the Duke of Connaught, revived in full measure the love of the British public for such ceremonies.
Princess "Pat's" choice was Rear-Admiral Sir A. M. Ramsay. This union compelled the Princess to relinquish her royal rank.

That this was the first royal wedding to take place in Westminster Abbey for over 600 years made this marriage outstanding.
The most important social event of 1922 was the marriage of the

The Very Idea!

By Eddie "Santa" Kelly

THE grim form of Father Christmas is stalking
the land.

Table-knives are being inserted surreptitiously into innocent children's money-boxes by furtive fathers.

Mothers are pondering whether to give the old man a packet of cigarettes for Christmas or a box of matches.

Thieves are abroad. Do something. Chase 'em! Stop 'em! What's the S.P.C.A. doing about it?

A wire-whiskered old goat gallivanting around the Colony in a red-flannel nightgown is causing all this bother.

Why can't the police get their Claus on him?

If he's not arrested before Tuesday, we're wrecked.

All the Christmas presents we've got to buy, and our last ten cents filched from us on Monday and flung into the Christmas pudding.

Fortunately we know where it is. We marked the place on the outside with an almond.

There's been only one bright spot in the preliminary proceedings. The missus said to us,
"What about drinks? I suppose you'd better see to that. How much will it cost?"

We said, "Well, there'll be Whalesteeth and his headache, and gran-daddy and the boys in the office, that'll be about a hundred bucks. Then there's me . . . say about six or seven hundred."

So she said, "All right. Go and take seven hundred dollars out of my purse, but no more." (You lie, you dog. You know you lie.)

Anyway, we managed to borrow fifty bucks by biting all our pals, and after we have finished this job will wander out to do our Christmas shopping. When the local firms heard that we were going to pay cash for our purchases they mobbed us.

Biting our pals was easy. You know:

"Say, George, old man, if you could lend me ten bucks yuletide me over Christmas."

—Rotten-pun, but that's what the festive season does to a man.

We haven't decided yet what to buy the missus and the girl friends, but the kids were easy.

They made a list to be posted to Father Christmas. Young Alfie wanted an aeroplane (Comet), an electric toy train complete with signals, waiting room and ticket office, costing approximately $250, a rifle and three million rounds of ammunition, and the model of the Empress of Britain in the Canadian Pacific window. So we bought him a whistle. Not very useful or instructive, we know, but it'll be handy to annoy the police.

We are expecting a lot of presents ourselves before Tuesday.
We have hired a godown to store them all. We have already received four calendars, 231 circular letters, 3 Christmas cards and an invitation to Santa Claus Land.

Still, seeing that Christmas is the time for goodwill and all that, we're going to wash out all the dirty cracks we've made about people during the past twelve months. Besides, they may forget, and send us along a couple of hogwads, or a sedan car, or something.

As a matter of fact, it might pay us to cultivate this spirit of fellowship of man and peace on earth a bit in the future.

No more antire about taipans.
We'll start on Christmas morning with the wife. Something like this: "Well, old dear, despite your floppy ears and grey hair, and apart from the fact that you've made life a living hell for me—with all your bad points, you're pretty juicy."

And she'll say, "Oh, Boy! A merry Christmas at you!"
And you too.
Don't gorge yourself.

CHRISTMAS ODE

Jean made a hit at the party,
And I soared to the planets in mirth—
But the hit she made after the party
Suddenly brought me to earth.

MINT SAUCE

And then there was the Ignorant person who thought that the Royal Mint was what the King and Queen used with their Christmas lamb.

INCOMPLETE

At the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, Mr. E. W. Hamilton fixed December 28 at 2.15 p.m. and January 3 at the same hour for hearing of the case in which Frederic Barretto and Luiz Antonio da Rocha are being charged on three counts relating to the alleged kidnapping of Luiz Ribeiro, aged six years, from No. 7 Hanoi Road, Kowloon.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, appeared for the Crown this morning, when the accused, who had been remanded from yesterday, were again charged.

In stating that he would not give an outline of the case this morning, Mr. Fraser said that the investigations of the Crown had still a little way to go, but he would be ready in a week's time. He mentioned that the evidence for the Crown would be relatively brief.

His Worship said he would start the case on December 28 on the assumption that it would go for trial to the Criminal Sessions.

Mr. Fraser, replying, said his opening of the case would assist His Worship on that point, but, so far as he knew at the moment, it would not be a case in which His Worship would have to commit.

Mr. Fraser further stated that it would be difficult to outline the case now, because he did not know what the outcome of further investigations would be.

POWERS AT CROSS PURPOSES

NAVAL ACCORD
NO NEARER

U.S. WAITING FOR TOKYO

Tokyo, Dec. 20.—The Minister of the Navy today instructed Admiral Yamamoto to remain in London and continue his efforts to carry Japan's point for naval equality. Newspapers comment acridly on the adjournment of the naval talks and declare it is regrettable, though to be expected. Although the Anglo-Japanese views are steadily converging, there can be no glimmer of hope as long as the United States remains stubborn concerning the Japanese claim for parity, they state.

Reports from Washington state that Mr. Cordell Hull has indicated that America intends to wait Japan's formal denunciation of the Washington Treaty before undertaking any new moves.

Mr. Hull denies reports to the effect that America is considering proposing a gentlemen's agreement with Japan and Great Britain concerning the scrapping of naval vessels during the next two years. —Reuter.

PRIZE DAY AT YAUMATI

SCHOOL'S SPIRIT OF HAPPINESS

The annual prize-giving ceremony in connection with Yaumati School was held this morning, when the awards were presented by Mrs. Mycock. After the Headmaster had presented his report for the past year, Shi Sik-kei, Class 8A, presented Mrs. Mycock with a basket of roses, on behalf of the School.

In the course of his report, the Headmaster said the School opened 261 terms during the year. Owing to the change in the educational year, we have had another short one. The maximum enrolment was 270 against 266 last year with an average daily attendance of 254.4 or 97 per cent.

Cambridge Association football Blues have been awarded to S. E. Smethurst (Manchester Grammar School), D. Parker (King Edward School), and K. P. S. Caldwell (Charterhouse).

AMBITIOUS PROJECT DISCUSSED

London, Dec. 20.

Far reaching developments in Empire air communications are proposed in a scheme outlined in the House of Commons to-day by Sir Philip Sassoon, Undersecretary for Air.

Sir Philip said these proposals, which are the results of many months of work by the Air Ministry and Post Office, in consultation with Imperial Airways, were approved by British Government in the late Summer and subsequently communicated to other Empire Governments concerned.

Until the views from all these Governments have been received the scheme must, of course, be regarded as a basis for discussion only, since its realisation depends upon their willing co-operation and support.

Sir Philip Sassoon emphasised that his statement must therefore not be taken as prejudging the issue. The scheme, he continued, contained three main features.

Firstly, very material improvement on the present time schedules between several parts of the Empire concerned.

Secondly, a substantial increase in the frequency of services.

And, thirdly, all first class mail to Empire countries covered by projected services in future to be carried by air.

A schedule was envisaged of just over two days to India, two and a half to East Africa, four to the Cape, four to Singapore and seven to Australia.

Provision was made for four or possibly five services a week to India, three services a week to Singapore and East Africa and two to South Africa and Australia respectively.

NO RATE DECISION

He could as yet say nothing definite about the letter rate proposed, but they hoped that so far as it concerned the United Kingdom letters for Empire destinations, subject to a successful outcome of negotiations with the Governments concerned, it might be in the region of the present Empire rate of 1½d. But this would apply per half ounce instead of to the first ounce, as at present.

He mentioned correspondence covering at least eight sheets of special light paper which could be sent within the half ounce limit. It would, of course, be for other participating Governments to fix their own postal charges.

An integral feature of the scheme was a comprehensive programme for the development of ground organisation of Empire air routes on a basis which would enable services which would cater for passenger as well as mail traffic, to operate by night as freely as by day.

INAUGURATION DATE

Sir Philip added it would not be practicable to give further details as regard finance, types of aircraft, etc., until negotiations with the other Governments concerned were completed and he could as yet give no date for the inauguration of the scheme. The provision of the necessary fleet and ground organisation would require a period of something like two years before a project of this magnitude, constituting as it does the largest step forward which has yet been taken in the development of Empire air communications, could be brought into full operation. Further, the Postmaster General made it clear there was little possibility of introducing a 1½d. postal rate for Imperial first class correspondence carried by air before 1937. —British Wireless.

EXTENDED SERVICE

London, Dec. 20.—From December 30, the England-South Africa air mail will operate twice a week instead of once. The Wednesday service will operate to Capetown but the Sunday service only to Johannesburg. From January 1 the air mail service to India will also operate twice a week. The Saturday service will operate right through to Australia but the Tuesday service only to Calcutta. —British Wireless.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

THE THING IS NOT ONLY TO AVOID ERROR, BUT TO ATTAIN IMMENSE MASSES OF TRUTH.—Cervantes.

The Garrison Sergeant-Mess Christmas draw will be made on Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Mess.

An Old German Christmas Play is to be held at the Union Church, Hongkong, at 6.30 p.m. to-day.

The Clover Flower Shop is making a special display of Christmas gifts, such as baskets of fruit, crystallised fruits, pot plants and flowers. In view of the rush for special baskets of flowers to be delivered during the Christmas holidays, it is requested that orders be placed as early as possible.

For stealing two packets of joss sticks from No. 46 Stanton Street, Hung Lok, was sentenced to one month's hard labour by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy this morning, and was sentenced to six weeks' hard labour, the complainant was Cheng Kam-ku, a woman. The scarf was valued at $4.

A fine of $120, with the alternative of two months' hard labour, was imposed upon Mak Kwai-lam, aged 35, a married woman, when at the Kowloon Magistracy she pleaded guilty to a charge of having possession of 14 lbs. of dutiable tobacco. It was stated that the defendant was arrested on the Ping On Wharf, and the tobacco was discovered packed in a quilt.

Mohammed Kasim, aged 28, was brought before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy this morning, charged with being a vagrant. Lance-Sergeant Russell stated that defendant came here in 1930 and was employed for one year as a cook, but had been unemployed for the last twelve months. The defendant was committed to the House of Detention pending arrangements to send him back to Ceylon.

The vehicular ferry will be maintained up to 2 a.m. on December 24, 25 and 31.

The P. and O. liner Somali is due here from Singapore at noon on Monday.

The Orient Tobacco Manufacturing, Hongkong, send next wall calendars for the coming year.

Caught whilst attempting to pawn a scarf which he had stolen, Au Ying, aged 30, unemployed, was brought before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy this morning, and was sentenced to six weeks' hard labour. The complainant was Cheng Kam-ku, a woman. The scarf was valued at $4.

For stealing a silver bangle from the leg of a seven-year-old girl in Sai Street yesterday, Leung Kam-chuen, was sentenced to four months' hard labour and 12 strokes of the birch by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy this morning. The girl's mother, Lo Yin-king, appeared as complainant.

A revolver and five rounds of ammunition wrapped up in newspaper in a baggage led to a fine of $250, or six months' in default, being imposed by Mr. Hamilton on Wong Man-hin, a retired shop keeper, at the Kowloon Police Court this morning. It was stated by Detective-Sergeant Danbrowsky that the defendant arrived from Havana, aboard the liner President Coolidge. The police were not pressing the case.

A breach of the deportation ordinance resulted in the appearance of Leung Fat-chi, aged 37, unemployed, before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy this morning, when he was sentenced to 12 months' hard labour. The defendant was banished in December, 1929, for ten years. He stated that he had just come down from Swatow and was passing through on his way to Canton.

Contingent Marching To Saar Front

ON THEIR WAY

SWEDISH UNIT
EMBARKS

London, Dec. 20.

The First Battalions of the East Lancashire and Essex Regiments left Caterick to-night for the Saar, marching out to the ringing cheers of the garrison.

This force, 1,000 strong, is taking forty tons of baggage, including several footballs.

The first of the British units for the Saar patrol are already at their stations, but they are mainly R.A.S.C. men who are making arrangements for the billeting and feeding of the army of peaceful occupation. —Reuter.

SWEDISH TROOPS

Stockholm, Dec. 20.

Sweden's contingent of troops for the Saar police force embarked at Trelleborg for Saxaunis to-day, after being reviewed by the King. His Majesty addressed the men, impressing upon them the fact that great confidence was being placed in their efficiency, discipline and judgment in the event of emergencies arising.

The detachment carried with it little Christmas trees and some parcels of special Swedish Christmas delicacies. —Reuter.

TAKES HAND IN MURDER TRIAL

ASSASSINATION SUSPECTS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(The Telegraph Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1924. Received, December 21, 10.10 a.m.)

Paris, Dec. 20.

The decision of Queen Marie of Yugoslavia to constitute herself "a civil party" in the case against the three men charged with complicity in connection with the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, creates a startling precedent in French legal history.

Legal circles are rejoicing at the decision of the Queen, mother of the boy ruler of the Serbs and Croats, saying it demonstrates the Queen's confidence in French justice. —United Press.

SENSATIONAL BADMINTON LEAGUE DEVELOPMENT

IMPROVING YOUNG CRICKETERS.

Middlesex Join With Junior Counties

Middlesex, who have long been seeking a suitable method of improving their young cricketers have taken an important step to that end by joining the Minor Counties' Championship.

Home and away matches in the competition have been arranged against Surrey, Kent, Glamorgan, Devon, and Cornwall, the home games to be played at Osterley, Finchley, and Belling.

Club and Ground games against strong clubs will, of course, be played as well, so that the senior side is now likely to be backed by efficient reserve strength.

K.C.C. WITHDRAW ALL THEIR TEAMS

HOUSE COMMITTEE AND DANCE FLOOR DAMAGE

(By "Veritas")

The Kowloon Cricket Club Badminton section yesterday learned with consternation of the decision of the General Committee made on Wednesday to abandon badminton at the K.C.C. forthwith.

As a result the Club, which figured amongst the pioneers of the game in Hongkong will have to withdraw their teams from the Badminton League.

It is understood that this decision was reached in consequence of a comprehensive report by the House Committee in which it was stated that not only had the playing of badminton on the sprung dance floor in the main hall of the Clubhouse already damaged the floor, but that its continuance would in all probability cause further considerable more damage.

The report was carefully studied and the decision to abandon the game was reluctantly made by the Committee.

DOUBLY UNFORTUNATE

The news will be regretfully received by all Badminton enthusiasts in the Colony, entailing as it does the withdrawal of three teams from the League.

So far as the K.C.C. is concerned it is doubly unfortunate, in respect of the Ladies' Doubles. This team which was in direct line for the Championship, had one more match to play on its own court and if this had been done it would have entitled the team to a deciding match with the Recreio "A". As it is the Recreio first string has now won the decision without further opposition.

The K.C.C. have played two matches in the Men's Doubles and Mixed Doubles. They will have to be expunged from the records. Their withdrawal from the Mixed Doubles leaves a loss to this Division of a very strong team, which started the season with two victories, one against the Fire Brigade and the other against the Chinese Recreation Club.

In the Men's Doubles two defeats were suffered against the Recreio "A" and St. Andrew's.

NEW SAINTS' TEAM

It is understood that St. Andrew's Club is making application to the Badminton Association for permission to enter a men's doubles team in the League. They will apply for admission to the "B" Division.

THE HOURS OF PLAY

(By R. Abbie)

Everything went according to expectation on Saturday last and the teams ran much according to form. In the game at Kowloon I learn that the home side won the toss and put the Club in, and from that angle they stood every chance of drawing the game should they have so desired. But they were very much weakened by the absence of Burnett and Willie Hung, which reduced the bowling to Smith and Lee more or less. I am told that Owen Hughes played a beautiful knock and scored his runs in an hour and half at most, and was placing the ball very skillfully as soon as he got his eye in. Pearce did not come off. He seems to have got rather a patch.

When I watch Branwell I wonder if Pearce is not over-cautious. Anyway he was taken at the wicket off a ball that came through a good deal quicker than the others.

Mitchell though twice lucky, played a most useful "Saturday afternoon" knock and an early declaration gave the Club a chance to win. It also gave the K.C.C. a chance to win and I gather that when the third wicket fell at seventy they were ahead of the clock—counting two runs to the minute. But after Teddy Fincher there was no one who could do anything and the whole side collapsed for twenty-one runs, after the fall of the third wicket. I was told, (and let me hastily say it was a K.C.C. man who said it), that the wicket had been watered a bit too much during the week, and when the effects of the roller had worn off, it took a great deal of spin. Anyway Ricketts and Pearce bowled commonly well. The Club will miss him at Christmas, but after all, Swatow is Swatow! A H.K.C.C. criticism was that Bob Lee was taken off an over or two too early and not put on again soon enough.

the chief scorers. It was a pretty honest draw.

FRIENDLIES

There was not very much of unusual interest in the various friendly games played. The I.R.C. beat Craigengower pretty easily, while Recreio were too good for the Press. The I.R.C. Juniors also won their match, as did the Police against the University. Hunter was again to the fore with the bat. I am glad to see that the new Regiment can raise an eleven. They did not do badly to run an Army side to a hundred odd runs. Major Barry, I gather, is a new Army spin bowler, but he is not playing to-morrow.

HOURS OF PLAY

There was so much to write of last week that I had no time to touch on the question of hours of play. I saw one very reasonable letter, I forget where which raised three points, with which I should like to deal. In the first place, the suggestion that League matches should start at 1.45 p.m. promptly is a counsel of perfection which honestly is not practicable without turning Saturday's cricket into very hard work. A great many of the players have to be in their offices until one or after. A great many of them cannot come to office in flannels, even with the addition of the harmless necessary tie. A great many of them cannot afford to have time off whether at a club or a restaurant. Now take the case of the Kowloon resident playing at the Happy Valley or a man who lives in Wongneichong Road playing at King's Park. At least he has to bring all his clothes over in the morning and a picnic lunch, and if he cannot be sure of getting his cricket gear transported by his Club, he will have to hump that as well. So only could he possibly be ready to go on to the field of play at 1.45 p.m., and though I don't say it could not be done I do say that it is making a weariness out of a pastime.

The second suggestion for afternoon tea is eminently practical and practicable. The interval is ten minutes in the rules and this I think should be kept. But it should be a "ten minutes sharp." I know of very few games in which fifteen minutes is not taken. The third point is the old question of playing each other twice. All I can say is that it has often been tried and always found wanting. The various friendly dates are useful in case of the necessity of postponing matches owing to bad weather or other causes. On paper I admit it sounds alright but I can only repeat that I have seen it tried more than once and that the result was not a success. However, I am inclined to think the question might well be debated at the next League Meeting. But—a big but—does it not rather put the Navy out of it?

TO-MORROW'S GAMES

Christmas is upon us and the only League game in the Senior Division is that between the Navy and the Army, which will be a useful try-out for the Triangular Tournament games. It will be a very close fight I think with a shade of odds on the Army. The Club, K.C.C. and C.S.C. are at home to Craigengower, I.R.C. and Recreio respectively. The Club and I.R.C. should win, but this second game will be a useful practice for two teams which are both a bit off their true form. Recreio should beat Civil Service.

In the Junior Division Varsity may beat R.E. as they are at home. In Friendlies—H.K.C.C. and I.R.C. should beat the C.S.C. and Police. Recreio will beat C.S.C. I fancy. At Christmas I gather Club plays the Army on the 26th. I fancy 24th is not a half holiday for Civilians while Navy visit Kowloon. Pity one cannot visit both matches at once!

FRIENDLY CRICKET

Queen's College Beat R.A.M.C.

In a friendly cricket match at Soerpoos on Tuesday, Queen's College beat the R.A.M.C. by one wicket. The military side scored 130, Capt. G. W. P. Kimm retiring after making 50. L/Cpl. Crawford contributed 84 towards the total.

The College team replied with 142 for nine wickets, D. Singh being top scorer with 58 his credit, while A. K. Kitchell scored 22.

LOW SCORING MATCH

Queen's College were beaten by 58 runs in a low scoring match by the Central British School on the Indian R. C. ground on Wednesday. The Kowloon students scored 91 runs, K. Trow making 25 and P. Wilson 20. M. Afzal captured eight of the wickets for 29 runs.

K. Baxter took seven wickets for 16, when Queen's College went to the crease. The latter were dismissed for 33 runs.

U.S. MARINES DRAW WITH CORNWALL

(By "Liasman")

H.M.S. Cornwall, the only rugby XV to beat the famous Fourth United States Marines team in Shanghai in 1923, when the latter were on top of their form, held the marines to a draw at Happy Valley yesterday, each side having eight points on the board. The teams thus still share honours in their three encounters, each having won a match prior to yesterday's game.

The Marines are passing through the Colony on the U.S. Transport Shantung on their way to Manila.

BOXING

The Neusel-Harvey Heavy Weight Fight

DRAW DECISION RECEIVED WITH BOOS

(By Fred Darnell)

Len Harvey, of England, who conceded 32lb. in weight to Walter Neusel, the German, at Wembley Pool, effected a draw before 10,000 spectators after one of the grimmest and most exciting fights seen between heavy-weights for a long time in this country.

It was not always a nice fight to watch. There was wrestling.

The referee, whose clothes were bespattered with blood at the finish and who stopped the bout on four occasions to ask the combatants for cleaner boxing, narrowly escaped a left hook to the jaw from Harvey.

Of course, Harvey giving so many hostages to fortune in the way of poundage, could not afford to stand on the order of his going. His fighting was a grim, calculating business.

Really I thought Harvey had turned the scale by the way he had outfought and damaged Neusel in the eleventh round. I had made Neusel rather little in front, and perhaps Harvey was of the same opinion, for he called all his resources into play for one great bid for victory. Neusel was astounded at the ferocious blows swung at him. He could not stop Harvey, whose spirited attack had the crowd yelling and punctuating every punch.

NEUSEL'S SLOWNESS
It was the best bit of fighting, masterful, inclusive and demoralising, that I have ever seen Harvey put up.

This was the high spot of the bout in which Neusel's best work was done at close quarters with short straight punches to the body. He is not so quick in action as thought as Harvey, but his plan of campaign obviously included some cleverly thought-out counters to the characteristic moves of Harvey.

I was much struck with the persistent way in which Neusel took the fight to Harvey. He lost two of the first three rounds, but I thought he won the next five rounds in succession because of his scoring at close quarters. His work could not have been so impressive to the long-view spectators in the gallery as the open swings of Harvey.

HARVEY'S TAMINA

At the end of the eighth round Neusel had a hot argument with his manager, but he was quickly soothed and, generally speaking, his methods were very agreeable. It was wonderful how Harvey withstood the weight and power of his giant opponent.

Neusel has a way of imposing most of the work on his rivals, but Harvey was always ready to unleash an unexpected rally. His fighting was colourful and dramatic.

He rarely caught Harvey napping and I do not think he has nearly as much the will to win as the Englishman. Otherwise, with that 32lb. handicap on the scales he should have won.

The referee's decision came as a bombshell to many of those present.

Booing and cat-calls came from all parts of the building, and Harvey, with an amazed expression, turned in an appealing attitude to the crowd.

Invariably Shows A Big Loss

One of the systems of betting which finds favour with many people during the flat race season is backing jockey's mounts. If you do this consistently you are bound to lose—except in very rare instances.

Eleven of the twelve leading jockeys this year, if followed on a 51 staking system, would show a big loss; in the case of the champion, Gordon Richards, it would be as much as $150.

The only one of them with a balance on the right side would be Porryman, who next year is to ride for Lord Derby.

The fault, of course, does not rest with the jockey. The most-sought-after of them are bound to ride many more losers than winners, and the prices of the winners of men like Richards are normally so short that they cannot balance the stakes that have gone.

I owe Branwell an apology, i.e., his name, but it shows you what you get if you are too careful as a scriber. I knew he had made a blunder at Lord's against the Army that Sub-Lieut. Branwell made 9 and 104 not but against the Army in 1932 and the same gentleman had made—according to the "Cricket" for that season for R.N. and R.M. Portsmouth 7 and 78 v. Quildowns, 53 and 14 v. R.A. and 54 and 19 v. M.C.C. with Bowles playing for them. How could one foresee that he would change into Branwell in the 1933 season? Anyway, my apologies.

JUNIOR DIVISION

The Navy had little difficulty in defeating the Civil Service in the Junior Division, for the C.S.C. only made forty-three of which Westlake had eighteen! Both K.C.C. and H.K.C.C. batted well on the Club ground. George Loo, Armstrong and Flowerdew being

Only six of the famous side of 1929 took the field yesterday at Happy Valley but that number included Rasmussen, who never fails to thrill the spectators. Possessing an amazing turn of speed he was outstanding and his try which opened the Marines account was one of the best seen on the Club ground this season. Taking a pass midway down the field he broke out from the rest of the players, swerved past Rawlinson and with another spectacular swerve a few yards further on passed a home to ground the ball between the posts.

Taken as a whole the Marines were much faster than the Cornwall, especially in the pack. Wherever the ball went three or four of the visitors were in attendance. They were also much heavier but were forced to concede many of the tight scrums to the sailors. Their kicking was also of a very high order, many dangerous situations being relieved by long touch-kicking.

The Cornish "three" were weak in sending and taking passes, many of their muffed efforts giving their opponents a decided advantage when they brought their feet into play. Lt. Cmdr. Neame made a good game at the base of the scrum and was seen in many movements. Lt. Webster was another prominent player.

They Navy team opened the scoring after about ten minutes play when Galletly landed a nice penalty goal. Thereafter, until the interval the Marines pressed strongly but could not get over the line.

Then came Rasmussen's try shortly after the interval which he himself converted to put the Marines ahead. Lt. Moe increased the lead when he fell on the ball as it went over following some close play near the corner flag. A penalty kick for the Cornwall near the "25" proved fruitless and with a minute to go they looked a beaten team. Just before the final whistle, however, Hume crossed over for Galletly to make the level the scoring.

The Grand National

TOM WALLS' SECRET HORSE

(By W. F. Sanderson)

Mr. Tom Walls hopes to win the Grand National next year with a horse ridden by his son. The ex-policeman film star, actor, jockey, racehorse trainer, and owner of a Derby winner (April the Fifth) has made an entry—the name is a secret—for the world's greatest steeplechase, run at Liverpool.

"You will see," he says, "I think I shall win it."
You cannot beat Tom Walls for optimism. I suggested that it would be a grand idea if once again he went into training and rode the horse himself.

"I'm afraid that can't be done. I should have the R.S.P.C.A. after me if I did that, but we are going to keep it in the family."

When Tom Walls, sen., said that his Grand National horse would be ridden by Tom Walls jun., the secret was nearly out.

Of course that is a guess, and Tom Walls may have another surprise up his sleeve. He did say to me, "Wait till 'Liverpool.' I'll have another April the Fifth surprise for you, but this time it will be in the Grand National."

TOM COBLEY FOR ST. JOHN'S CUP

NEW FORM OF BETTING

(By "CAPT. FOSTER.")

The first meeting under N. H. Rules takes place next Sunday at Kwanti. The first race will be run at 2.30 p.m. and the Card consists of five events, including the popular Ladies' race.

The Stewards of the Fanling Hunt and Race Club are to be congratulated in their endeavour to popularize the Meetings by making the betting more attractive, especially in these none too flourishing days. Instead of the customary win and place Pari-Mutuel, we shall see a new form of betting, known as the "wire" system in Australia where, I gather, it is very popular. In future, there will be one form of betting, and holders of tickets will receive dividends in the order of the finish. The winner will receive 60% of the Pool, less betting tax, etc., etc., and the second and third ponies 20% each.

I cannot say very much regarding the ponies competing next Sunday, as the training of the majority of them over jumps has been somewhat restricted.

For the first race, The Volunteers' Hurdle race, I think Wilden should score easily, with Mouche and Roundhead second and third.

Recreio And Club Teams

The Club de Recreio first eleven will meet St. Joseph's, their old rivals, on Sunday in the senior Football League at Caroline Hill and will be represented by the following:—E. M. Marques; R. Silva-Netto and J. Bowen; N. Delgado; N. A. Beltrao and V. H. Marques; T. Castilho, B. Gosano, A. V. Gosano, J. Gomes and J. Alves.

SECOND TEAM

The Club de Recreio second team will be represented by the following in their match on Saturday against the Royal Engineers, King's Park: I. M. Fernandez; E. J. Silva and E. Lawrence; R. Laurel, C. Figuerido and H. A. Remedios; C. A. Marques, H. Campos, C. Santos, L. Castilho and A. Alves.

CLUB ELEVEN

The Club, who meet the Police for First Division points tomorrow will be represented by the following: Rodger; Gamble, S. Strange; Hynes, Skinner, Duncan; Fowler, Brown, Howe, E. Strange and Blackford.

The Club second string will be represented by the following in their Second Division match against South China: Payne; Knillton, Binnie, McKellar, Forrow, Nicholls; G. Williams, Fisher, G. Duncan, Bitter and Sloan.

position pretty stiff in the Tai Po Steeplechase Handicap, as I can see Wakefield, Sticky Past and Racing Pluck making him go a good gallop all the way. With more schooling, I think, Racing Pluck will make his presence felt in subsequent steeplechases at Kwanti. In any case, I shall not be surprised to see him register a win on his first appearance on Sunday.

between the second and third pony. We could not be treated to better finishes, more especially to wind up the season.

Ribble (Mr. P. P. Botelho) just won the Tardy Handicap from Monoplane and Valorous (Mr. Heard). Valorous was not too well placed in the run-in, but for this I think he would have just about won the race.

Great Hall (Mr. Pih) was, I think, fortunate to secure the head verdict from Iron Grey (Mr. P. P. Botelho) and Heart's Glory (Mr. Doltz). Iron Grey, to my mind, was an unlucky loser; he could not come through until too late but when an opening did present itself, he came up very fast and was rapidly overhauling Great Hall, but did not quite get up to secure first place.

The finish of the Finals Plate was in a way somewhat a surprise to me as I did not think Little Beauty (Mr. W. H. Choy) would be beaten. In the race, especially when coming into the straight, he looked all over a winner until about a hundred yards from home. Delightful Chance (Mr. F. F. Li) came on the scene very fast and eventually won somewhat easily by two and a half lengths. Soldier of Fortune (Mr. H. A. de B. Botelho) also spurred and passed the now tiring Little Beauty near the winning post to finish second.

Soldier of Italy and The Goat should fill the minor places. Marina, I understand, is shaping nicely but also strikes me as being "too big" to be dangerous on Sunday.

The Loafer is my fancy for the Ladies' Scurry and I think he will be followed home by Red Leaves and Kung.

For the St. John's Cup over approximately three miles of fair hunting country, Tom Cobley should experience no difficulty in adding another win to his credit. Winchester Stag should finish second and Skebwald Griffin third.

COINTREAU Liqueur
LA MARQUE MONDIALE

"NO THANK YOU BOY" How many times at the end of a perfectly cheery dinner is this remark made in Hongkong, when the two or three uninteresting liqueurs are handed round? Strangely enough, so many hosts neglect this final touch to an otherwise excellent repast.

And yet there are several delightfully subtle liqueurs which will not only be greatly appreciated, but will capture the imagination of your guests and create an atmosphere of soothing contentment.

Of course, the wonderfully subtle spirits of COINTREAU are universally known.

The secret charms of SEVE SAINTONGE; the delicacy of MAJESTIC, and of those exquisite "LIQUEURS DE FRAISES" and "LIQUEURS DE FRAMBOISES" embodying the soul of French strawberries and raspberries, are the joy of epicures.

Now available at The French Store, The Wing On Company, The Kwan Tye Loong Store, The Empress Store (Nathan Road), The Hung Cheong Store (Nathan Road) and the Tai Woo Store (Hankow Road, Kowloon).

COLONY'S TRADE

DECREASE REVEALED IN STATISTICS

The Statistical Office of the Imports and Exports Department reports that during the first eleven months of 1934, imports of merchandise into the Colony of Hongkong totalled $377.7 millions ($284.4 millions), as compared with $464.1 millions ($312.3 millions) in the corresponding period of 1933; a decrease in terms of Hongkong currency of 18.6 per cent., whilst exports of merchandise were valued at $296.7 millions ($22.3 millions), as compared with $375.1 millions ($25.3 millions) in the corresponding period.

"TELEGRAPH" ART SUPPLEMENT

Topical Pictures
To-morrow

Wedding illustrated in to-morrow's issue of the Telegraph Pictorial Supplement will include those of Mr. H. F. Shields and Miss Doris Mitchell, and of Mr. Leung Yan-pui and Miss Ma Sul-hing.

There will be three pictures of the "Aladdin" pantomime, whilst an interesting group will show the members of the Hongkong Chinese Choral Society.

General Shum Hung-ying, who formerly played an important part in Canton's military affairs, will be seen in a group at a Buddhist Monastery, where he adopted Buddhism the day before his death last week.

Other groups will include the senior class at St. Paul's Boys' College, and teams who took part in the Junior Ping Pong League.

of 1933: a decrease in terms of Hongkong currency of 20.9 per cent.

Figures for the month of November, 1934, show that imports of merchandise into the Colony amounted to a declared value of $38.8 millions ($3.2 millions), as compared with $40.6 millions ($2.9 millions) in November of 1933: a decrease in terms of local currency of 4.4 per cent.

Exports of merchandise totalled $29.6 millions ($2.4 millions), as compared with $35.7 millions ($2.4 millions): a decrease in terms of local currency of 12.6 per cent.

Since November, 1933, total imports of merchandise into Hongkong fluctuated from the lowest Hongkong dollar value (29.6 millions) in February, 1934, to the highest (40.6 millions) in November, 1933; whilst exports fluctuated from $22.2 millions in February, 1934, to $33.7 millions in November, 1933.

That Heavy Feeling!

For that heavy feeling after meals, and to aid digestion try Pinkettes, the dainty little liver and intestinal regulators. As gently as nature dispel constipation, bilious attacks, liverishness, sick headaches, gloom. Then, used occasionally when needed, they ensure daily regularity, pure breath, a clear skin and the bright eyes of health. Chemists everywhere sell Pinkettes.

King's only daughter, Princess Mary, to Lord Lascelles in Westminster Abbey. It was the first wedding of any of the King's children, and as such it excited even more feverish public interest than any other royal wedding of the century.

Princess Mary made a very beautiful bride, and many present commented on her striking likeness at the altar to her mother, the Queen, when she had been a bride herself almost thirty years before. The honeymoon of the royal couple was spent in Shropshire and Italy.

The following year London had another opportunity to cheer a royal bridal couple when the Duke of York led the lovely Scottish Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon to the altar at Westminster Abbey. How the Duke wooed and won the charming daughter of the Earl and Countess of Strathmore made a romantic story dear to the hearts of the people.

SERIAL STORY

The Clue Of The Forgotten Murder:

CHAPTER XXXIX

Griff nodded to the lawyer. "You tell him," he said.

Fisher turned, facing Bleeker. "At the time the cheque was cashed," he said, speaking slowly and with grave emphasis, "the plot, whatever it was, was about to culminate. This man, Malone, knew that Cathay would not be in a position to make any complaint. In other words he had anticipated the death of Frank B. Cathay, in which event the cancelled cheque with the forged signature would be found among his effects. A check-up of the hotel register would show that Cathay was registered there that night; that the man who had cashed the cheque had exhibited documentary evidence showing he was the real Frank Cathay. Of course this matter would not come up until months after Cathay's death, when the estate had been probated and the claim of this man, Malone, whatever it was, against the estate presented for trial. As you are doubtless aware, litigation takes time and is subject to annoying delay.

"The attorneys representing the Malone claim, whatever its nature, would demand that the estate produce all documents and vouchers which were in its possession. The cancelled cheque could not have been before his death. It would, therefore, destroyed because it would have come into the possession of the estate instead of the possession of Cathay before his death. It would, therefore, make an excellent demonstration of the genuineness of the forged signature.

"I wish I knew," Fisher said. "I can surmise and I can suspect but my obligations to my client, gentlemen, prevent me from communicating my suspicions or my surmises. It even goes so far as to seal my lips before his death, save such facts as I believe I may communicate without detriment to my client."

Griff stared in fixed concentration at the patterned carpet of the hotel hallway.

"I am quite sure you do," Fisher said readily enough, "but I cannot confirm your surmises, and I do not wish to. You can, however, appreciate the importance of getting Frank Bles into custody and getting an interview with Mrs. Blanche Malone before Peter Malone is able to get in touch with her. Naturally, also, it becomes vitally important to apprehend Peter Malone."

"Don't you think," Griff asked, "that Peter Malone has done all that he can to do, that he has fully performed his part in the scheme of things and is now ready to vanish?"

"I think," Fisher said, "he already has vanished."

"Your plan?" asked Griff.

"I think," Fisher said, "we should call upon Mrs. Blanche Malone."

"Good heavens!" he said, "that must be it! But can it hold up in view of the testimony of this young woman?"

"That," Fisher said, "remains to be seen. But, of course, that is the thing I am trying to do—to thwart this conspiracy. I think, gentlemen, it will better if I go to see Mrs. Malone without having you along. The interests of my client are vitally involved. I pledge you to make a complete disclosure of whatever I find out. After I have talked with her you may talk with her, but I think you will agree it may be much more possible to get a complete statement from her if I talk with her alone than if I have an audience."

Griff nodded. "That," he said, "is fair enough."

"Where," asked Bleeker, "can we get in touch with you after you have finished your interview with Mrs. Malone?"

"I would suggest," Fisher said, "that you go to Mr. Griff's office and wait there. I will telephone as soon as I have discovered anything of importance."

"My office," Griff said, "is where I live. It's a combination of bachelor's apartment and office. I will give you one of my cards and I will assign to you an unlisted telephone number. Whenever you call on this telephone I will know that you are the one who is speaking."

He took a card from his case, scribbled a telephone number on the back of it, handed it to the attorney. "Now," said Fisher, "we're commencing to get somewhere."

He jabbed his finger against the call button on the side of the elevator shaft.

The men rode down in the elevator in silence. Fisher strode toward the door.

"Till call you," he said, and then caught the eye of the doorman. "Taxi," he called.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

This is the third of six championship hands explained by Aaron Frank, of Cleveland, through William E. McKenney.
You may be bewildered by the bidding on to-day's hand, but this hand was played with Aaron Frank in the South and his partner, Jeff Glick, in the North, against two of the strongest players in the United States.
The bidding started out normal enough, with North making a third-hand diamond bid. Of course, his two-heart bid is a psychic. Now I want you to lay the cards out on this hand and follow the play, card for card. You will find some fine card reading and exceptionally good card playing.

The Play
North's opening lead was the queen of diamonds which was won in dummy with the king. The declarer now played a small spade away from dummy's ace and finessed the ten spot, North winning the trick with the jack. North cashed his ace of diamonds and Mr. Frank, in the South, discarded the eight of clubs.
North now shifted to the deuce of clubs, the ten was played from dummy and Mr. Frank won with the king. He returned the three of clubs. The trick was won in the dummy with the ace. The ace and king of hearts were then played from dummy, followed by a small heart, which Mr. Frank won with the jack of hearts, North discarding a diamond.
Mr. Frank now has a perfect count on his partner's hand. He knows that North originally held only five diamonds, because, if he had held six, he would have continued the diamond suit. The lead of the deuce of clubs marked Mr. Glick with four clubs. The way the declarer played the spade suit marks North with the king and jack of spades.

Now Mr. Frank can lead his queen of hearts and defeat the contract, but he elected to try a bolder play and led the jack of clubs, declarer winning the trick with the queen, a diamond being discarded from dummy.
The declarer then led the ten of diamonds which Mr. Glick, in the North, won with the jack.
North lays down his good seven of clubs and the declarer finds himself squeezed. He discards the eight of hearts from dummy, South discards the queen of hearts and now the declarer cannot let go of the nine of diamonds or North's four will be good, so he has to drop the four of spades.
North now leads the king of spades and Mr. Frank makes the last trick with the nine of spades, defeating the contract three tricks.

Today's Contract Problem
This is the fourth of six winning hands by Aaron Frank. West has the contract for three no trump, hearts West wins and leads a diamond, which South wins. Would you return a heart or a spade? If a spade, which one?

SOVIET FIRM HOLDS RIGHTS

Peking, Dec. 21. According to a high official of the Charhar Government, considerable difficulty still exists in the way of a satisfactory settlement of the trade problem between Charhar and Outer Mongolia.

Most of the trade rights are monopolised by Soviet-financed firms, which, therefore, leaves Charhar in a very unfavourable position.

ALL DIFFICULTIES NOW REMOVED

Peking, Dec. 20. A message reaching here from Tibet states that as a result of General Huang Wu-sung's efforts at Lhasa all difficulty that obstructs the return of the Panchen Lama to Tibet has been removed.

As an indication of the general favourable feeling shown among the Tibetan people toward the Panchen Lama, a delegation jointly sent by three leading Buddhist Convents in Tibet to welcome the Panchen Lama back, is on its way here.—Central News.

ARMS EMBARGO VIOLATION?

BELGIUM & NORWAY INDICTED

Geneva, Dec. 20. Britain has complained to the League of Nations with regard to alleged violations of the arms embargo to Paraguay and Bolivia by Belgium and Norway.

Latest reports of the hostilities show that heavy fighting is proceeding between the Paraguayan and Bolivian forces.—Reuter.

DUTCH PLANE'S TRIUMPH

Paramaribo, Dec. 20. The first Atlantic crossing by a Dutch air-liner was successfully accomplished to-day when a big Fokker, carrying Christmas mails, arrived here from Amsterdam.

The Governor of Dutch Guiana was among the great crowd which greeted the fliers when they landed and gave them the warmest of welcomes.

On the last stage of the flight, a 2,250 mile leg from the Cape Verde Islands, the fliers were over a part of the Atlantic never before crossed by aircraft. They covered that long ocean course in 18 hours.—Reuter.

London, Dec. 20.

It was announced in the House of Commons that an additional provision of £500,000 will be made available out of the Road Fund for grants to a scheme for reconstruction of weak bridges and for other urgent improvements with which highway authorities are ready to proceed immediately.

Grants at the rate of 75 per cent. towards 25 bridge schemes, estimated to cost about £400,000 are being issued at once. These are additional to about 80 schemes for reconstructing weak bridges or replacing level crossings at a total cost of £670,000, which the Transport Minister has already approved during the year.

Highway authorities are thus being helped to provide at once a substantial volume of useful work.—British Wireless.

CHEAP ATLANTIC RATES

BRITISH PLAN NOT FAVOURED

London, Dec. 20. The proposal of British groups to buy the Red Star liners and organise a new trans-Atlantic service at cheap rates was again raised in the House of Commons to-day.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Chamberlain, replying to a question, refused to reconsider his decision to discourage the necessary capital issue to finance this project. He said the recent revision of the scheme by its promoters did not alter the fact it would revive uneconomic competition, to the prejudice of British interests in the North Atlantic trade.—British Wireless.

SIR JOHN AND LADY SIMON

London, Dec. 20. Sir John and Lady Simon are going to the South of France for the Christmas holiday. They will leave England on Saturday and stay at Cannes for about a fortnight.

The Foreign Secretary will pass through Paris. Although he will be in the French capital for only a few hours, he hopes to have an opportunity of seeing the French Premier and Foreign Minister, Messrs. Flandin and Laval.—British Wireless.

WANG CHING-WEI ILL

Nanking, Dec. 20. Mr. Wang Ching-wei, President of the Executive Yuan, is proceeding to Shanghai by a special train to-night in order to consult Dr. Noll on his physical condition. He will also visit Mr. Koo Meng-yu, Minister of Railways, and Admiral Chen Shao-kuen, Minister of the Navy, both of whom are in hospital.—Central News.
